The seller reports that while the winning bidder backed out, eBay is going down the list of 132 bids to find a buyer, and he's vowed to donate some of the proceeds to an animal charity in Harambe's name no matter how much it sells for. #### Mirena® may be just the right birth control for you.

Mirena is a small IUD (intrauterine device) that's over 99% effective at preventing pregnancy for up to 5 years. Mirena is also approved to treat heavy periods in women who choose intrauterine contraception and can be removed by your healthcare provider at any time. With Mirena, there's no daily routine, but check the threads of Mirena once a month to make sure it's in place. Your healthcare provider will show you how. Mirena is available by prescription only.

• Indications & Usage:

Mirena (levonorgestrel-releasing intrauterine system) is a hormone-releasing system placed in your uterus to prevent pregnancy for as long as you want for up to 5 years. Mirena also treats heavy periods in women who choose intrauterine contraception.

• Important Safety Information:

Only you and your healthcare provider can decide if Mirena is right for you. Mirena is recommended for women who have had a child. Don't use Mirena if you have a pelvic infection, get infections easily or have certain cancers. Less than 1% of users get a serious infection called pelvic inflammatory disease. If you have persistent pelvic or abdominal pain, see your healthcare provider. Mirena may attach to or go through the wall of the uterus and cause other problems. If Mirena comes out, use back-up birth control and call your healthcare provider. Although uncommon, pregnancy while using Mirena can be life threatening and may result in loss of pregnancy or fertility. Ovarian cysts may occur but usually disappear. Bleeding and spotting may increase in the first 3 to 6 months and remain irregular. Periods over time may become shorter, lighter, or may stop. Mirena does not protect against HIV or STDs.

For important risk and use information about Mirena, please see Brief Summary of Patient Information on the reverse side.

You are encouraged to report negative side effects of prescription drugs to the FDA. Visit www.fda.gov/medwatch or call 1-800-FDA-1088.

Important Facts About Mirena

Mirena®

(levonorgestrel-releasing intrauterine system)

This information is not comprehensive. Please see the full prescribing information at www.mirena-us.com for additional information.

Mirena does not protect against HIV infection (AIDS) and other sexually transmitted infections (STIs).

Read this Patient Information carefully before you decide if Mirena is right for you.

This information does not take the place of talking with your gynecologist or other healthcare provider who specializes in women's health. If you have any questions about Mirena, ask your healthcare provider. You should also learn about other birth control methods to choose the one that is best for you.

Who might use Mirena?

You might choose Mirena if you:

- Want long-term birth control that provides a low chance of getting pregnant (less than 1 in 100)
- Want birth control that works continuously for up to 5 years
- Want birth control that is reversible
- Want a birth control method that you do not need to take daily
- Have had at least one child
- Want treatment for heavy periods and are willing to use a birth control method that is placed in the uterus
- Want birth control that does not contain estrogen

Who should not use Mirena?

Do not use Mirena if you:

- Are or might be pregnant; Mirena cannot be used as an emergency contraceptive
- Have had a serious pelvic infection called pelvic Inflammatory disease (PID) unless you have had a normal pregnancy after the infection went away
- Have an untreated pelvic infection now
- Have had a serious pelvic infection in the past 3 months after a pregnancy
- Can get infections easily. For example, if you have:
   Multiple sexual partners or your partner has multiple sexual partners
- o Problems with your immune system
- o Intravenous drug abuse
- Have or suspect you might have cancer of the uterus or cervix
- Have bleeding from the vagina that has not been explained
- Have liver disease or liver tumor
- Have breast cancer or any other cancer that is sensitive to progestin (a female hormone), now or in the past
- Have an intrauterine device in your uterus already
- Have a condition of the uterus that changes the shape of the uterine cavity, such as large fibroid tumors
- Are allergic to levonorgestrel, silicone, polyethylene, silica, barium sulfate or iron oxide

What does my healthcare provider need to know? Before having Mirena placed, tell your healthcare provider if you:

Have had a heart attack

- Have had a stroke
- Were born with heart disease or have problems with your heart valves
- Have problems with blood clotting or take medicine to reduce clotting
- Have high blood pressure
- Recently had a baby or if you are breastfeeding
- Have severe migraine headaches

How is Mirena placed?

Mirena is placed by your healthcare provider during an in-office visit.

First, your healthcare provider will examine your pelvis to find the exact position of your uterus. Your healthcare provider will then clean your vagina and cervix with an antiseptic solution, and slide a slim plastic tube containing Mirena into your uterus. Your healthcare provider will then remove the plastic tube, and leave Mirena in your uterus. Your healthcare provider will cut the threads to the right length. Placement takes only a few minutes.

You may experience pain, bleeding or dizziness during and after placement. If your symptoms do not pass within 30 minutes after placement, Mirena may not have been placed correctly. Your healthcare provider will examine you to see if Mirena needs to be removed or replaced.

Should I check that Mirena is in place?

Yes, you should check that Mirena is in proper position by feeling the removal threads. It is a good habit to do this once a month. Your healthcare provider should tell you how to check that Mirena is in place. First, wash your hands with soap and water. You can check by reaching up to the top of your vagina with clean fingers to feel the removal threads. Do not pull on the threads. If you feel more than just the threads or if you cannot feel the threads, Mirena may not be in the right position and may not prevent pregnancy. Use non-hormonal back-up birth control (such as condoms and spermicide) and ask your healthcare provider to check that Mirena is still in the right polace.

How soon after placement of Mirena should I return to my healthcare provider?

Call your healthcare provider if you have any questions or concerns (see "When should I call my healthcare provider"). Otherwise, you should return to your healthcare provider for a follow-up visit 4 to 6 weeks after Mirena is placed to make sure that Mirena is in the right position.

Can I use tampons with Mirena?

Tampons may be used with Mirena.

What if I become pregnant while using Mirena?

Call your healthcare provider right away if you think you are pregnant. If you get pregnant while using Mirena, you may have an ectopic pregnancy. This means that the pregnancy is not in the uterus. Unusual vaginal bleeding or abdominal pain may be a sign of ectopic pregnancy. Ectopic pregnancy is a medical emergency that often requires surgery. Ectopic pregnancy can cause internal bleeding, infertility, and even death.

There are also risks if you get pregnant while using Mirena and the pregnancy is in the uterus. Severe infection, miscarriage, premature delivery, and even death can occur with pregnancies that continue with an intrauterine device (IUD). Because of this, your healthcare provider may try to remove Mirena, even though removing it may cause a miscarriage. If Mirena cannot be removed, talk with your healthcare provider about the benefits and risks of continuing the pregnancy. If you continue your pregnancy, see your healthcare provider regularly. Call your healthcare provider right away if you get flu-like symptoms, fever, chills, cramping, pain, bleeding, vaginal discharge, or fluid leaking from your vagina. These may be signs of infection. It is not known if Mirena can cause long-term effects on the fetus if it stays in place during a pregnancy.

How will Mirena change my periods?

For the first 3 to 6 months, your period may become irregular and the number of bleeding days may increase. You may also have frequent spotting or light bleeding. Some women have heavy bleeding during this time. After you have used Mirena for a while, the number of bleeding and spotting days is likely to lessen. There is a small chance that your periods will stop altogether. In some women with heavy bleeding, the total blood loss per cycle progressively decreases with continued use. The number of spotting and bleeding days may months that follow.

Is it safe to breastfeed while using Mirena?

initially increase but then typically decreases in the

You may use Mirena when you are breastfeeding if more than six weeks have passed since you had your baby. If you are breastfeeding, Mirena is not likely to affect the quality or amount of your breast milk or the health of your nursing baby. However, isolated cases of decreased milk production have been reported among women using progestin-only birth control pills.

Will Mirena interfere with sexual intercourse?

You and your partner should not feel Mirena during intercourse. Mirena is placed in the uterus, not in the vagina. Sometimes your partner feels the threads. If this occurs, talk with your healthcare provider.

What are the possible side effects of using Mirena? Mirena can cause serious side effects including:

- Pelvic inflammatory disease (PID). Some IUD users get a serious pelvic infection called pelvic inflammatory disease. PID is usually sexually transmitted. You have a higher chance of getting PID if you or your partner have sex with other partners. PID can cause serious problems such as infertility, ectopic pregnancy or pelvic pain that does not go away. PID is usually treated with antibiotics. More serious cases of PID may require surgery. A hysterectomy (removal of the uterus) is sometimes needed. In rare cases, infections that start as PID can even cause death.
- Tell your healthcare provider right away if you have any

- of these signs of PID: long-lasting or heavy bleeding, unusual vaginal discharge, low abdominal (stomach area) pain, painful sex, chills, or fever.
- Life-threatening infection. Life-threatening infection can occur within the first few days after Mirena is placed. Call your healthcare provider immediately if you develop severe pain or fever shortly after Mirena is placed.
- Perforation. Mirena may become attached to (embedded) or go through the wall of the uterus. This is called perforation. If this occurs, Mirena may no longer prevent pregnancy. If perforation occurs, Mirena may move outside the uterus and can cause internal scarring, infection, or damage to other organs, and you may need surgery to have Mirena removed. The risk of perforation is increased in breastfeeding women.

Common side effects of Mirena include:

- Pain, bleeding or dizziness during and after placement.
   If these symptoms do not stop 30 minutes after placement, Mirena may not have been placed correctly. Your healthcare provider will examine you to see if Mirena needs to be removed or replaced.
- Expulsion. Mirena may come out by itself. This is called expulsion. You may become pregnant if Mirena comes out. If you think that Mirena has come out, use a backup birth control method like condoms and spermicide and call your healthcare provider.
- Missed menstrual periods. About 2 out of 10 women stop having periods after 1 year of Mirena use. If you do not have a period for 6 weeks during Mirena use, call your healthcare provider. When Mirena is removed, your menstrual periods will come back.
- Changes in bleeding. You may have bleeding and spotting between menstrual periods, especially during the first 3 to 6 months. Sometimes the bleeding is heavier than usual at first. However, the bleeding usually becomes lighter than usual and may be irregular. Call your healthcare provider if the bleeding remains heavier than usual or increases after it has been light for a while.
- Cysts on the ovary. About 12 out of 100 women using Mirena develop a cyst on the ovary. These cysts usually disappear on their own in a month or two. However, cysts can cause pain and sometimes cysts will need surgery.

This is not a complete list of possible side effects with Mirena. For more information, ask your healthcare provider.

Call your doctor for medical advice about side effects. You may report side effects to the manufacturer at 1-888-842-2937, or FDA at 1-800-FDA-1088 or www.fda.gov/medwatch.

After Mirena has been placed, when should I call my healthcare provider?

Call your healthcare provider if you have any concerns about Mirena. Be sure to call if you:

- Think you are pregnant
- Have pelvic pain or pain during sex
- Have unusual vaginal discharge or genital sores
- Have unexplained fever, flu-like symptoms or chills
- Might be exposed to sexually transmitted infections (STIs)
- Cannot feel Mirena's threads
- Develop very severe or migraine headaches
- Have yellowing of the skin or whites of the eyes. These may be signs of liver problems.
- Have had a stroke or heart attack
- Or your partner becomes HIV positive
- Have severe vaginal bleeding or bleeding that lasts a long time

To learn more, talk about Mirena with your healthcare provider and see the full FDA-approved Prescribing Information found on www.mirena-us.com or call 1-888-842-2937.

As Savannah Guthrie panics, the Today team takes her side

egyn Kelly's hiring at NBC has plunged the Today show into turmoil. "First Tamron [Hall] quit because she was losing the third hour as the show gets rearranged for Megyn," says a network insider. "Now there are fears that Megyn isn't getting the third hour after all, but was in fact brought in to replace Savannah Guthrie, who co-hosts the first two hours with Matt Lauer. Even Savannah herself suspects something is up — and she's a wreck over it."

So much so, she recently broke down when she got a visit at home from Matt. (Savannah, 45, has been out on maternity leave since Dec. 2.) Matt, 59, "told her that everyone at the show, from him to Hoda Kotb and Kathie Lee Gifford, is behind her and will stage a walkout if NBC tries to replace her with Megyn," says the network insider. Savannah tried to talk him out of it, but Matt - who, as In Touch first reported, was blindsided by Megyn's hiring - wouldn't hear of it. "Savannah started to cry," adds the network insider. "It meant the world to her."

Tamron Hall and Hoda Kotb turned out for the Woman's Day Red Dress Awards in NYC on Feb. 7, and while Tamron declined to give any interviews, Hoda happily talked about Megyn's addition to the Today show. "She is going to get hazed," Hoda, 52, joked to In Touch. "That is how we do it when a newbie shows up. Hazing...it includes bringing them on the 10 o'clock show and serving them, if you know what I mean. We're going to see how she is after a few glasses. I want to see how she holds it; it's very important. We are going to have some fun."

Matt was dead serious. "Savannah is beloved by the entire cast and crew, and they are furious over the rumors about Megyn taking her job," says the network insider. "So the entire cast - led by Matt - decided to take it upon themselves to do everything possible not only to assure Savannah that her job was secure, but to come up with a contingency plan if a move was made by network execs to replace her with Megyn."

The specifics of that plan? "Matt, Al Roker, Hoda, Kathie Lee and Carson Daly have decided that if a move is made to replace Savannah, they will go off the air immediately and indefinitely," says the network insider. Matt didn't stop there. "He even said he would make an announcement on the air stating the reasons why the entire Today team was going on strike, that extremely close,"

says the insider.

le has her

it's in support of Savannah," adds the network insider. "When Matt told Savannah all this, she got so emotional."

For Savannah, it's not personal. Megyn's rep tells In Touch Savannah and Megyn are "very good friends" who "frequently text one another" and that Savannah attended Megyn's birthday party. "Savannah likes Megyn," says the network insider, "but she feels threatened by the way NBC has handled the situation.

A move like the one spearheaded by Matt isn't unprecedented at NBC. "It's very reminiscent of what the Friends cast did when they were renegotiating their salaries," points out the network insider. "If they all didn't get paid the same salary, they were all walking. NBC lost that fight, and I think they'd lose this one, too."

Matt and the other Today cohosts have considerable power. "It was one thing to bump Tamron from the third hour, but it's another to replace Savannah," says the network insider. "Everyone adores her, especially Matt. It's amazing — Megyn hasn't even started yet and there is so much drama already at the Today show. It's certainly a very ominous sign of things to come."

Brad Pitt scores a win in his bitter custody fight as Angelina Jolie makes a major reversal or five months, she had her kids. Because of a temporary agreement reached shortly after Angelina Jolie's dramatic September split from Brad Pitt, their six kids — Maddox, 15, Pax, 13, Zahara, 12, Shiloh, 10, and twins Knox and Vivienne, 8 - lived exclusively with their mother, who strictly controlled their visitations with Brad and publicly accused him of abuse as she demanded sole physical custody of the brood. "Angelina said from the beginning," her rep insisted in a November statement, "that she felt she had to take action for the health of the family."

But Angelina has given up her fight. "Angie has dropped her bid for sole custody," a source tells In Touch exclusively, explaining that the actress, 41, eventually realized she had no choice after Brad, 53, was cleared of all child abuse allegations by the LA Department of Children and Family Services (DCFS) and the FBI (and even members of her inner circle told her that her crusade was futile). "It was a huge blow, but she has to accept it because there is just no basis for Brad to not have the kids at least half of the time. This is what joint custody is going to look like."

Brad is now trying to make up for lost time. "He's become a much more prominent figure in the kids' lives, and they seem to be doing a lot better now that things have calmed down," says the source. "He's recently had two different overnights with two kids without being monitored, and he's hoping to have them for at least a week at a time by the end of February or early March." Eldest sons

Maddox and Pax — who were involved in the plane incident that led to their parents' split (see sidebar) — remain reluctant. "They haven't spent the night," adds the source. "Those relationships are still very tenuous, and Brad really hasn't had a breakthrough with the boys yet."

Tensions with his ex are still high, too. "Brad and Angie haven't seen each other in months," says the source, adding that both are working with a private judge to officially resolve the custody battle and receiving therapy separately to deal with "unresolved anger. Their therapists' goal is to get them to a place of acceptance of the situation, so that they will be able to sit in the same room to work through those issues. Getting to the place where they have a healthy relationship will allow them to co-parent the kids."

That won't be easy for Angelina. She had convinced herself that she would be granted permanent sole custody as soon as Brad was found guilty of abuse, says the source. That didn't happen, and now she's fuming. "She's still telling friends that she's extremely angry and bitter at the system for failing the kids," adds the source. "It's unlikely she would ever admit that she was wrong or apologize to Brad or anyone else for actions she has taken. It's just not who she is."

a Nasty Battle

It's Been Such

EXPLOSIVE SPLIT

After an altercation between Brad, Angelina and sons Maddox and Pax on a private flight from France to the U.S. on Sept. 14, Angelina abruptly ended the marriage. "She believes what happened on the plane traumatized their children," a source close to her told In Touch.

MONITORED VISITS

Brad agreed to have visits with his kids supervised by therapists while cooperating with investigations by DCFS and the FBI. He was cleared by both agencies. "People close to Angelina went around saying Brad was going to be charged, and of course he wasn't," says an insider.

DIRTY LAUNDRY

Angelina allowed her lawyers to publicly file documents that named the kids' therapists and revealed that Brad was tested for drugs and alcohol. Court papers filed on Jan. 3 (above) went so far as to claim that Brad was "likely terrified that the public will learn the truth" about him.

He put her through hell during their seven-year marriage. Now it's payback time!

arek and Christina El Moussa were together again. The exes both headed to Las Vegas to attend their Success Path real estate house-flipping seminar's Investor Summit on Feb. 10 — their first joint public appearance since Tarek filed divorce papers one month earlier. "It was a business decision for them to be there together," says a Success Path source. When Tarek took the mic, he told the crowd to stick to "businessrelated questions," the source says. He and Christina then spent hours smiling, posing for photos and talking about real estate deals with no mention of their ugly divorce. "The whole thing," one attendee tells In Touch, "was awkward."

Once the seminar was over, Christina headed straight for the door. And it's no surprise. In Touch has learned that in the wake of the couple's nasty breakup, she's desperate to erase her ex from her life and get revenge on him. "There's nothing she wants more than to get back at him for how he tormented her," an HGTV source tells In Touch exclusively. First she's aiming for his bank account. Tarek requested spousal support when he filed for divorce on Jan. 9, but the HGTV source says that Christina has no intention of handing over her hard-earned money. Christina, 33, is getting revenge in other ways, too: She's humiliating him by getting serious with his wealthy former friend, and she's maneuvering to ditch him and land her own TV show. And in one of her most shocking moves, Christina didn't defend Tarek, 35, at all when In Touch recently revealed how he often berated her, reduced her to tears and called her unspeakable names on the Flip or Flop set during their seven-year marriage, which finally blew apart in May after a frightening incident that saw Christina call 911 when Tarek fled their house with a gun. "Tarek put Christina through hell," says the HGTV source. "Now she wants him to pay."

She knows all of his humiliating secrets. "The public is already aware of his bad behavior, but there are so many more juicy details that Christina is holding inside," the HGTV source tells In Touch. "Christina has seen Tarek in his darkest days and could expose him at any time. She's told friends that she has dirt on Tarek and that if he tries to cross her, she has no problem exposing him."

as he spoke to the crowd. "Tarek and Christina weren't affectionate," Dani Vetrano, who attended Christina is already making Tarek suffer. She's been flaunting her hot new romance with Gary Anderson (see above), a contractor who used to be Tarek's friend and even redid the couple's pool last year before their breakup. "It stings, and Christina knows it," says a Tarek and Christina insider. "Tarek is incredibly jealous and filled with rage. When he and Christina were on the rocks, he confessed to the production crew that he suspected she was dating someone, so he hired a private investigator to follow her. He wanted to know where she was going and what she was doing." Tarek suspected it was Gary (who, according to police, was at a neighbor's house in May and witnessed Tarek flee into the hills near

Just stay positive and focus on what's important"

- CHRISTINA, WHEN ASKED ABOUT HOW TO SURVIVE DIVORCE

their home with a gun). "It's hard for Tarek to see Christina dating, but it's even worse that Gary is the guy she's with," adds the insider. "There's nothing that could be more upsetting to Tarek than to see her with a guy who is like him but better — and that's Gary. He's in the same industry as Tarek, but he's older and more established and has more money."

It was clear that Tarek had his eye on one of the girls; they were flirting and touching each other."

But Christina won't rely on Gary to support her. She's been endorsing products on social media, including sunglasses and a paint line, "and has told friends that she wants to be the next big thing on Instagram," says the HGTV source. It's all part of her plan to separate herself from Tarek. Christina's already more popular than Tarek with 654.000 Instagram followers more than four times the number of followers he has. And some of Tarek's followers are extremely critical of him. In Touch has learned Tarek routinely blocks those followers and also scrubs unfavorable comments from his feed.

Christina is determined to become a bigger star than Tarek. "She's been pushing HGTV executives to give her her own show for more than four months now," says the HGTV source. (Another insider previously told In Touch that Christina has told the network that she "wants a younger, sexier, betterlooking co-star" than Tarek.) Adds the HGTV source, "Christina thinks getting her own show would be the ultimate slap in the face to Tarek — even better than her dating Gary. She really thinks Flip or Flop viewers will be on her side and follow her to her new show."

It isn't surprising that many viewers are on Team Christina. In Touch recently revealed many of the horrible things Tarek did to her over the course of their marriage. "He treated her like garbage," says an eyewitness. "When she said the wrong thing and they had to do a retake, he got pissed and he'd often make her cry. Once on set, he went up to her and squeezed her breasts. He grabbed her butt all the time. He called her a whore and made her cry, and even joked about raping her." When In Touch asked Christina for comment, she didn't deny any of the allegations, only telling In Touch through a rep, "We will not be providing any comments." Christina's silence spoke volumes — and it was a devastating move Tarek never saw coming. "She got revenge on him by not saying anything," believes the HGTV source. "She hasn't denied any of the claims because everything is true. Christina hasn't defended Tarek because she wants him to sink." (When contacted by In Touch, Tarek refused to address any specific claims about his behavior, instead issuing a statement about "fake news.")

One thing is certain: This divorce is just going to get nastier and nastier. "If Christina decides to really tell all, Tarek wouldn't be able to recover from it," says the insider. "She really has all the power here, which is why it's so laughable that he's asking her for spousal support. If Tarek were smart, he would just cut his losses and bow out of this divorce quickly and gracefully."

Tarek's Cryptic Facebook Message to an In Touch Reporter

An In Touch reporter – who has reached out to associates of Tarek's while breaking exclusive news about his divorce from Christina – got a surprise when she logged on to Facebook on Feb. 5. The night before, Tarek had added her on Messenger at 10:23 p.m. One minute later, Tarek tried to call the reporter before cryptically messaging her, "So I will pay you if you tell me all the awful things about you. You can even lie about yourself and I'll still pay you..." Our reporter accepted Tarek's Messenger request on Feb. 6, and on Feb. 10, she messaged him back asking him to answer the questions In Touch originally sent his rep on Jan. 16 (below is a sampling of those questions). Facebook time stamps show that Tarek read the messages. At press time, three days later, he had yet to respond.

QUESTIONS TAREK WON'T ANSWER:

- 1. Tarek often yelled at Christina on the set of Flip or Flop. He often treated her poorly in front of many other people, and on several occasions she went off the set to get away from him and was seen crying as a result of his treatment, including going into her car to cry. Do you confirm or deny this or have any comment on it?
- 2. Tarek called Christina a "whore" on more than one occasion in front of other people. Do you confirm or deny this or have any comment on it?
- 3. In one exchange Tarek said to Christina, "Shut up woman or I will rape you." He laughed about it and it is clear he was not serious about raping her, but eyewitnesses were deeply disturbed by the statement. Do you confirm or deny this or have any comment on it?
- 4. When Tarek was particularly annoying or berating her, Christina responded, "Shut up, you are annoying, you're crazy," in an attempt to get him to stop his behavior. This was seen by multiple eyewitnesses. Do you have any comment on this?
- 5. The marriage was not always damaged, but it became particularly troubled in 2016. Tarek often grabbed Christina's breasts and buttocks in front of others. This behavior was not meant to harm her. She sometimes did nothing; at other times she said, "Get away from me." Do you confirm or deny this or have any comment on it?
- 6. On the set Tarek often spoke about "strippers and ho's" (whores), and this was heard by multiple people. Tarek often joked about hitting up a strip club after work, in front of Christina. Do you confirm or deny this or have any comment on it?
- 7. Did Tarek enter any type of rehab or any type of treatment program (whether inpatient or outpatient) in 2016? If so, what was he seeking help for? (We know he kept filming.)
- 8. Also after the May incident in 2016, Christina was upset with Tarek about a bill that was mailed to their home. She was heard saying that the bill was for $40,000 for a "rehab facility." Do you deny that Christina said this? (Be aware, there are eyewitnesses.) Would you care to explain what rehab facility she was referring to?
- 9. Sources tell In Touch that Tarek tried for months to win back Christina, with a calmer demeanor at times when he approached her, and was heard saying to her, "I'm happy Tarek now." Do you confirm or deny this or have any comment on it?
- 10. Why is Tarek demanding spousal support from Christina, plus attorney's fees?

With her ex Scott Disick struggling to keep it together, Kourtney Kardashian rekindles her steamy romance with Justin Bieber seemed wasted when he showed up to a party in the Hollywood Hills on Feb. 9. "He was slurring his words and falling down," a source tells In Touch, adding that Scott continued to party and drink hard alcohol all night. "He was acting ridiculously rude. He approached every girl there and asked them to give him oral sex. Everyone was so already

disgusted by him." So is his ex Kourtney Kardashian. Sick of his nonstop drinking and partying with young models, she's rekindled her steamy romance with Justin Bieber. "She's been hanging out with him again," an insider tells In Touch exclusively, adding that Kourtney, 37, called Justin, 22, as soon as she got back from a family vacation in Costa Rica. (As In Touch reported, Scott, 33, brought model Bella Banos, 20, along on the trip and tried to hide her in his hotel room, but ended up getting busted.) "Justin and Kourtney are having fun. They recently attended a church service in LA followed by a romantic night out at the Polo Lounge at the Beverly Hills Hotel, where they got cozy over cocktails," adds the insider. "They made no effort to hide their affections. It was almost like Kourtney wanted Scott to find out."

She did. "Kourtney thinks Justin is hot and he makes her feel sexy and vouthful. But she also uses him as a pawn to get back at Scott," says the insider, explaining that Scott has long been threatened by Justin's "success and good looks." And since they began hooking up in late 2015, Kourtney and Justin have been happy to help each other make their exes jealous — as recently as mid-January, they were spied at the Peppermint Club in West Hollywood, where they were attempting to get revenge on Justin's ex Selena Gomez, who's now dating the Weeknd. But this time may be different. "Kourtney and Justin have crazy chemistry and are very attracted to each other," the insider says. "They've been in constant contact since she got home, so who knows what the future holds."

The thought of Kourt getting serious with Justin is pushing Scott even further over the edge. "He's in a total downward spiral right now," says the source, adding that the troubled reality star — who was spotted with at least six different women during a recent vacation in Miami - is back to his hardpartying and womanizing ways. "Scott's a total mess. He seems to convince all these young models that they are his 'girlfriend' while still hooking up with several women a night. It's gross. People have completely lost respect for him."

Especially Kourtney. "She's infuriated by his behavior and feels let down," the insider says, adding that Kourtney is most concerned about his relationship with their children, Mason, 7, Penelope, 4, and Reign, 2. But Scott — who went to rehab in 2015 for drug and alcohol abuse - has shut down anyone who attempts to help him. "If Scott doesn't stop this behavior, he could lose it all," says the source. "He needs to clean up his act, and fast."

Oh, Lord! Scott is getting his own E! show. "It's a hybrid home makeover-reality show. Scott will be flipping houses for resale, but the show will also focus on his personal life," says a network insider. Producers are holding auditions for interior designers to bring legitimacy to the series, says the insider, adding that Kourtney has yet to decide if she and their three kids will be involved in the Keeping Up With the Kardashians spin-off. "Given the fact that momager Kris [Jenner, 61] has signed off on the show, it seems likely that at least some of the family will make appearances."

verything seemed perfect. Around 4 p.m. on Nov. 4, the production crew began setting up for Bachelor Nick Viall's final-four elimination rose ceremony on the fourth-floor terrace of Brooklyn's luxe William Vale Hotel. "The circular platform where the rose ceremony was going to be held had flowers set up around it. Yellow candles lined the table where Nick's roses were placed," an eyewitness tells In Touch exclusively. "It looked like the most romantic setting ever."

Looks can be deceiving. Despite its picturesque appearance, "the outdoor ceremony turned out to be a disaster," says the eyewitness. "It was so cold and windy. The women were shivering as they waited for Nick to arrive — he was 30 minutes late - and one of the roses actually blew away!" Nick's final four women "didn't seem interested in even being there," adds the eyewitness. "It was the rose ceremony from hell."

Bachelor host Chris Harrison tried to drum up some enthusiasm, to no avail. In the lobby shortly before the rose ceremony was set to begin, he chatted with the two women who In Touch has learned would eventually make it to the final two. (In Touch is withholding their names to avoid spoiling the ending.) "But the winner looked totally bored. She was pacing back and forth. She seemed to be really impatient," says the eyewitness, adding that things only got worse once filming began. When Nick, 36, "finally showed up, he didn't hug any of them hello. He seemed emotionless and just took his place next to the roses."

The ceremony lasted less than 10 minutes. The woman who would go on to become the second runner-up "was the first to receive a rose, followed by the final two women," says the witness. When the last woman did not receive a rose, she began to tear up. "She gave the other girls a really long hug. It really seemed like she was going to miss them. Then she wiped away the tears that were running down her cheeks with both hands and walked off with Nick to say her goodbyes. She was sent off in a limo within 10 minutes of being let go."

For Nick, it was a relief. "There were a few girls that Nick was forced by producers to keep around this season, and the girl he sent home that night was one of them," says a source, adding that although Nick was happy with the three women he brought to the Fantasy Suite, he's been having second thoughts about his fiancée because of constant fighting and his lingering feelings for the other women. "From day one this hasn't gone as smoothly as Nick had planned," adds the source. "At this point, he's just hoping he didn't make the biggest mistake of his life by sending home a woman who should have made it to the end."

eorge Clooney never thought he'd have kids, but now that he's set to become a dad, he can barely wait! "He still can't believe that in a few months he's going to be the father of a boy and a girl. He's freaking out," a source says of Amal Clooney's pregnancy with twins, which In Touch first reported in our Jan. 30 issue (see inset, above) and which George's pal Matt Damon confirmed in a Feb. 9 interview. "George's paternal instincts have kicked into high gear. He's constantly researching baby car seats and cribs and reading up on all things pregnancy," says the source, adding that the actor, 55, has also been doting on the human-rights lawyer, 39, and talking to her belly as they prepare for her June due date. "He's taking care of Amal like never before. Anything she wants or needs, George tries to anticipate it. From getting her food — she's been craving pasta and Cadbury Dairy Milk chocolate bars — to feeding their dog to bending over and reaching for her laptop, George wants to do it all for Amal. It's really sweet." And while friends know he's going to be an amazing father, there is one daddy duty George is dreading. "He's nervous about changing diapers," says the source. "He says he'd like to experience it, but he's also honest and admits that's what moms and nannies are for." But that doesn't mean he won't be involved. "George wants to be as hands-on as possible. He jokes that for a guy pushing 60, he's the one who's going to need the time-outs. But he truly is grateful," adds the source. "He sees becoming a father at this age as a gift."

She has a famous sweet tooth, but Mariah Carey almost ruined her own dessert at a recent party! Celebrating the release of her new song "I Don't" at the LA eatery Catch on Feb. 4, the pop diva, 47, "was drinking champagne all night" and looked unsteady on her feet at times, says a witness. "At one point she nearly knocked over the cake! She stumbled and almost landed in it." (A rep for Mariah denies the story.) Her boyfriend, Bryan Tanaka, 33, and manager Stella Bulochnikov "stayed by her side trying to hold her up," says the witness, adding that Mariah was unfazed. "She didn't seem to care what anybody was thinking. You'll never hear her apologize for having too much fun at her own party.'

GAGA FINA

Lady Gaga recently went public with her new beau, talent agent Christian Carino – after officially letting go of her past. "She gave Taylor [Kinney] back her heart-shaped engagement ring shortly after the holidays," says a source, adding that even though they officially called off their engagement in July following five years of dating, the singer had been holding on to the unique Lorraine Schwartz sparkler in hopes that they would reconcile. Gaga, 30, and the Chicago Fire actor, 35, "had been spending time together late last year, but Taylor just wouldn't commit to getting engaged again." Gaga had no choice but to move on. "She was incredibly sad to give the ring back," adds the source. "But it was the closure she needed."

Robin to Paula:

The battle between Robin Thicke and Paula Patton keeps getting uglier. On Feb. 8, an LA judge denied Robin's request for unsupervised visits with his son, Julian, 6. Now he's blaming his ex-wife, 41, for the ruling. "He believes Paula is telling everyone he's a terrible father," a source says of Robin, who can only see his son with a monitor present. "Robin thinks the Department of Children and Family Services and the courts believe everything Paula says." Meanwhile the Warcraft: The Beginning actress scored another victory in the custody fight: "She has already taken a drug test and has passed," says the source, adding that the "Blurred Lines" singer, 39, will also be tested for drugs. With a monitor present, Robin got to see his son on Feb. 9, when he took him on a sushi outing. As In Touch previously reported. Julian told his mother and a school employee in early January that Robin had spanked him "really hard." While the singer is deeply frustrated by the situation, it's taking the biggest toll on Julian. Says the source: "This is very traumatic for him."

Kylie Jenner's famously plump pout is making her life difficult. "She's had so much lip filler that it's hard for her to eat and drink and talk," an insider tells In Touch. Kylie, 19, "has a problem pronouncing certain words and letters, particularly B and W. And she usually has to sip through a straw because it's difficult for her to drink directly from a cup." While it seems mortifying, Kylie, whose lip kits are a huge success, can't make any big changes. "She's got a brand to protect," adds the insider. "Beauty and image come first."

Talk about a Scandal! Kerry Washington, 40, wants to use her connections in Hollywood to get her husband, former NFL player Nnamdi Asomugha, 35, an acting job. "Now that Nnamdi's football career is over, Kerry's been pushing him to become an actor," says an insider, adding that she's become his unofficial acting coach. "He's had small roles in the past" - in 2009 he appeared on an episode of Friday Night Lights, and he had a small part in Bruce Willis' 2012 film Fire With Fire – "but Kerry's been asking people to spread the word that he's got the acting bug. She's on a mission to turn him into a star.

fter a third of a century in show business, Mario Lopez doesn't lack for work. Every weekday, the 43-year-old co-anchors the TV show Extra and hosts the syndicated radio show ON With Mario Lopez! The downside? Less time at home with his wife of four years, Courtney, 35, and their children Gia, 6, and Dominic, 3. "You really try to be there for their important moments," he says. "It's tough." Here, Mario, who recently joined forces with givit.com, a social platform that allows users to create content to raise money for charity, chats with In Touch's Jaclyn Roth about family life, how he really feels about a Saved by the Bell reunion and the strangest (and scariest!) rumor he's ever heard about himself.

How are your kids doing?

ML: Dominic is all boy; he's very physical. Gia loves to perform. She sings and dances - she's even done red carpet interviews with everyone from Justin Timberlake to Cate Blanchett!

Does she want to follow in your footsteps?

ML: Gia sees what Daddy does is fun, but I don't think she grasps the concept of being on TV and all that.

Would you guys like to have more kids? ML: Initially I wanted a bunch, but it's tough to spread yourself around with work and everything you're trying to accomplish. So I'm just focusing on the two great ones I have.

You started acting at age 10. How did you avoid the child-star trap?

ML: Parents who were very involved and strict. If I stepped out of line, I was afraid of my old man. I owe everything to them.

You meet hundreds of celebs each year. Are there any you're still dying to interview but haven't?

ML: I've gotten to interview everyone on my bucket list. I recently checked off the last one: Clint Eastwood.

Fans still adore you from Saved by the Bell, which first aired in 1989. What accounts for its enduring popularity?

ML: I have no idea. I just feel fortunate people are still watching.

Do you keep up with any castmates?

ML: All of them, just like a regular high school. We're doing our own thing, but I've seen Mark-Paul [Gosselaar] and his kids lately at different functions, and I also see Tiffani [Thiessen] and Elizabeth [Berkley].

Two years ago, the gang did a reunion sketch with Jimmy Fallon on his show. How about a real TV special?

ML: I'm always open to doing something with them, but I don't know how I'd pull it off. Between my TV and radio shows and other shows I'm producing, unfortunately there are just not enough hours in the day!

Do you mind fans greeting you as Slater?

ML: No. If people recognize me as him, I guess I haven't aged that poorly!

ON A LIGHTER NOTE ...

Mario answers our silliest questions!

WHO'S MADE YOU MOST STARSTRUCK?

Al Pacino.

WEIGHT LOSS

consumption and increased body fat has long been known. Too much sugar in the diet promotes more insulin, the fat storing hormone, and thus more body fat.

The link between sugar

THE SLIMMING EFFECT OF STABLE BLOOD SUGAR LEVELS

ecently an Italian study of a sugar-blocking supplement showed significant weight loss results.1 The supplement, called Zuccarin, produced on average 20 pounds of weight loss, in the 90 day study.

The subjects lost 10% of their body weight and lost 3 times the weight of the control group, who were also on a 1300 calorie controlled diet, but not taking the Zuccarin supplement. In addition, the subjects also experienced healthier blood sugar levels after using Zuccarin.

The explanation for the weight loss is that Zuccarin uses mulberry leaf extract and chromium to promote healthy blood sugar levels. Mulberry leaf has shown to reduce the absorption of sugars in the foods we eat. When these sugars are undigested, our blood sugar stabilizes and, according to experts, weight loss can occur.

attention to the tensions between some of the town's moms. There's Madeline (Reese Witherspoon), who resents seeing her ex-husband

Maddie's best friend Celeste

(Nicole Kidman), meanwhile, has a passion with her husband (Alexander Skarsgård) that has a dark side. Then there's new-to-town Jane (Shailene Woodley), a single mom who seems to be running away from her past. When Jane's son is accused of bullying the daughter of powerful career woman Renata (Laura Dern), battle lines are drawn. Could passive-aggressive politics over kids' birthday-party invites and school plays really lead to murder? This slowburning seven-part series is a mesmerizing mystery packed with complex characters and powerful performances.

How a guys' weekend turned into a doggy day care – and led to eight forever homes

t was supposed to be a week of four-wheeling, parties and testosterone-fueled fun with his closest pals at a cabin in rural Tennessee. But for groom-to-be Mitchel Craddock, his bachelor festivities took a surprising turn and quickly went to the dogs. Literally.

It all began when an uninvited guest showed up to the October get-together. "We looked out and there was a dog at our door," Mitchel, a 23-year-old construction worker from Vicksburg, Mich., tells In Touch. They offered food and water to the malnourished stray. Over the next couple days, she visited again and again, and the guys realized she had begun to produce milk. "We connected the dots and figured her pups may still be nearby, so we followed her out to a spot in the woods," says Mitchel. "We found a deep hole with seven puppies inside. There wasn't a whole lot of thinking of, 'Do we just take them to a pound?' We had to bring them home."

The crew of eight sprang into action, bathing, defleaing and tending to the grateful pups.

"We used our beer money to buy supplies," says Brent Witters, 25, Mitchel's best man. When Mitchel texted his then-fiancée, Kristen Olson, to tell her what had happened and that he and the other guys wanted to take the pups home, "She wrote back, 'Which one are we keeping?'" The answer: the light-gold Brimmie, who's been happily residing with the couple - who married on Oct. 8 – ever since. Mitchel's dad, Doug, adopted the mother, whom they had named Annie, after Little Orphan Annie. "All of the dogs went to loving homes within a five-mile radius of each other, adds Mitchel: "Most of us hang went viral. An online news story on the men has been viewed more than 40 million times, and the guys even have their own Facebook group page called Tennessee Mutt Puppies. "We made a set of puppy calendars to sell for charity," says Mitchel, adding that proceeds go to the Humane Society, "and we sold out!"

Does the gang have any regrets about missing out on a Hangover-style experience? "This wasn't a traditional bachelor party," says Mitchel. "It was a lot better! Everyone's got a new companion, and life is good."

- Reporting by Hilary Sheinbaum

Kim's Daughter: The Next Real Housewives Star?

Kim Zolciak-Biermann's daughter Brielle, 19, is dating Chicago White Sox prospect Michael Kopech, so she asked Andy Cohen to do a Real Housewives of Chicago so she could star on it. I agree with Brielle that Chicago is ripe for a Bravo reality show, but it shouldn't be yet another Real Housewives. It could focus on younger girls like Brielle being shown the town by Kristin Cavallari, who's married to Chicago Bears QB Jay Cutler. Sex and the Windy City, anyone?
