JOSH DUGGAR LOOK-ALIKE WANTED BY POLICE!

On Feb. 14, the Springdale, Ark., police department took to Facebook to ask for residents' help finding a man who robbed an employee at the local Dollar General store. Along with an image of the culprit from surveillance footage, police posted, "If anyone recognizes him please call our Detective Division...or private message us." Locals did recognize the man, and pointed police toward...Josh Duggar! A flood of tipsters noted the uncanny resemblance to the disgraced 19 Kids & Counting star (whose parents, Michelle and Jim Bob, live less than 15 minutes from the scene of the crime). "Looks like Josh Duggar to me," said one commenter, while another sniped, "He shouldn't be too hard to find." (In Touch's tip line also blew up with amateur sleuths who thought they'd cracked the case!) Josh, 28, is no stranger to trouble — In Touch broke the news that he repeatedly molested five underage girls as a teen. No word on whether the actual thief, whoever he is, is upset at being mistaken for Josh.

MARIAH'S SUCH A DOLL!

Mariah Carey's boy toy Bryan Tanaka now has a special new toy of his own! "Mariah told pals that she bought Bryan a $10,000 life-size doll of herself so he won't miss her when they're apart," a source tells In Touch. (See our sweet, sweet fantasy of how this fantastic plaything looks, at right.) According to the source, the Mimi doll comes with its own collection of sparkly designer gowns – duh! – so Bryan can play dress-up with Mariah when she's away. "It also sings 'Hero,' 'I'll Be There,' 'Fantasy,' 'Dreamlover,' 'Breakdown' and 'Honey,' which are Bryan's favorite Mariah songs," says the source. The diva's doppelgänger talks, too – Mariah, 47, prerecorded a few special phrases for her beau, 33, including "Mimi misses you," "You're fabulous" and "Where's my champagne, darling?" Mariah's rep denies the doll exists, but let's be real: It's all we want for Christmas this year!

TORI HAS A BABY SHOWER FOR HER 5TH CHILD: TACKY OR TOTALLY FINE?

Tori Spelling recently celebrated the upcoming birth of her fifth child, a son, at a lavish baby shower thrown by mom Candy – but the reality star got just as much criticism as she did well-wishes. “You have a baby shower for your first baby only,” scoffed one online commenter. “After that it’s considered begging for gifts.” (Tori, 43, has reportedly been dealing with six-figure credit card debt, and many feel the shower money should have gone toward paying her bills.) But at least one fan sees no harm in it: “Each child is a blessing and should be celebrated!”

NICOLE: I WAS ENGAGED TO LENNY!

While discussing what it was like working with Zoë Kravitz in the HBO series Big Little Lies, Nicole Kidman dropped a major bomb: She was almost the young actress's stepmom! “Well, I knew Zoë because I was engaged to her father,” Nic breezily explained.

Nicole, 49, and Lenny, 52, were linked in 2003, three years before she married husband Keith Urban – and there are definitely no hard feelings. “I love Lenny,” she says. “He’s a great guy.” And, apparently, one who can keep a secret!

NEWSPAPER MISTAKES ALEC FOR TRUMP

Fake news alert! Considering how Donald Trump feels about both the media and Alec Baldwin's Saturday Night Live impersonation of him, he really won't like this: El Nacional, a newspaper in the Dominican Republic, published a photo of Alec, 58, with the caption, "Donald Trump, president of the U.S.A." Oops! The photo, which ran alongside a pic of the real Israeli prime minister, Benjamin Netanyahu, simply "went unnoticed," El Nacional said in a statement apologizing to "anyone who felt affected" by the gaffe.

Trump dice colonias de Israel no favorecen paz

FUNERAL HOME OFFERS DRIVE-THROUGH SERVICES

You know when you want to pay your final respects to a loved one but you just don't want to look for parking? Neither do we. But the R. Bernard Funeral Home in Memphis, Tenn., understands – so they're offering drive-through viewings. "We've been getting rave reviews," says owner Ryan Bernard, who installed screens to show live feeds of the deceased (the building, a former bank, already had a drive-through lane). "We've had people actually just pull up with curiosity," adds Bernard. "They didn't even know the person who passed." Let's hope this idea gets put to rest soon.

MAN CREATES DATING APP, DOESN'T LET OTHER MEN JOIN

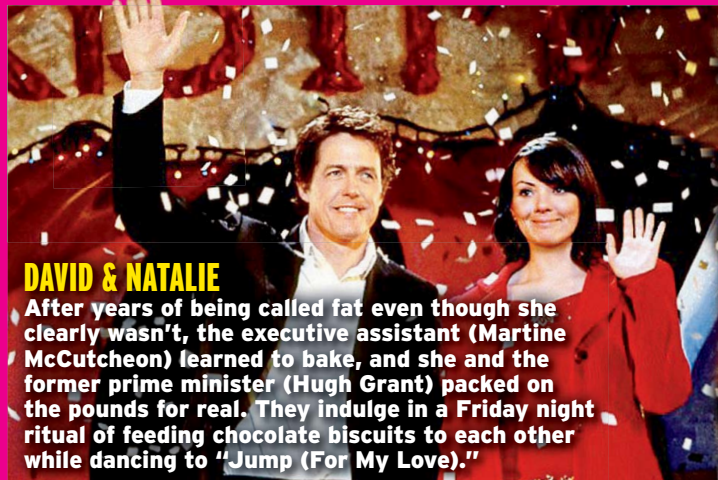

In an idea that has single guys everywhere asking, "Why didn't I think of that?!" Shed Simove came up with his own dating app, Shinder, on which he's the only eligible bachelor. "I thought I would try to create my own pond, so...I would naturally be the biggest fish," he says. How does it work? Like Tinder, you create a profile and start swiping. If you swipe left on Shed, game over. If you swipe right, the 45-year-old Brit is notified. So far, he's had more than 100 matches. The unexpected downside? "I want to reply to everyone and say hello...I'm tired," he laments. "I'm on it all the time." (File under: Be careful what you wish for.)

LOVE ACTUALLY: WHERE ARE THEY NOW

Love Actually... is all around again! It's been 14 years since the beloved rom-com came out, and fans are about to find out what happened to the couples after their (mostly) happy endings. The cast is reuniting for a 10-minute short film in support of the Red Nose Day charity, and it will air in the U.S. on May 25. Scriptwriter Emma Freud solicited plot ideas on Twitter on Feb. 15 – and we have a few of our own!

DAVID & NATALIE

After years of being called fat even though she clearly wasn't, the executive assistant (Martine McCutcheon) learned to bake, and she and the former prime minister (Hugh Grant) packed on the pounds for real. They indulge in a Friday night ritual of feeding chocolate biscuits to each other while dancing to "Jump (For My Love)."

JAMIE & AURELIA

Realizing that a language barrier is easily conquered by love, the crime novelist (Colin Firth) and his hot housekeeper (Lúcia Moniz) started a successful mail-order-bride business and retired to that lake house in the south of France, where they play charades...and eat a lot of roast eel.

REGIS' MEMORY LAPSE

Time to add "forgetful" to Regis Philbin's "grumpy old man" image. The 85-year-old recently put his former Live co-host Kelly Ripa, 46, on blast, claiming in an interview that "she got very offended when I left" and that they hadn't spoken since his 2011 exit from the show: "Never once did they ask me to go back." But he was invited back to the show in October 2015 and took part in a dream sequence with Kelly. Backstage footage shows Kelly giving Regis a warm embrace (inset) and a tour of the studio. An insider tells In Touch that memory lapses are part of the reason for the pair's bad blood. "Near the end of the show, Regis was making mistakes, like calling huge guests the wrong name," says the insider. "Kelly spoke to him about it, he got really defensive and it was never the same after that."

Tom Cruise has a change of heart about his relationship with Suri following the death of his mother

It was a devastating loss for Tom Cruise. In early February, his beloved mother, Mary Lee South, died in her sleep at age 80. Over the weekend of Feb. 11, Tom gathered with his three sisters to honor their mom at a memorial service near Scientology headquarters in Clearwater, Fla. "Having his mother pass away like this and then attending a family funeral for her," says a close friend, "made Tom re-evaluate what's most important in his life."

At the top of the list? His relationship with his daughter Suri. The fifth-grader, who turns 11 in April, was 7 the last time Tom, 54, was publicly photographed with her. On Sept. 15, 2013, a year after Katie Holmes, 38, blindsided him with divorce papers, Tom and Suri were spotted together at a mini-golf range in New York's Adirondack Mountains. "Mary Lee's death really turned Tom's head around," says the close friend. "Tom now wants to re-establish his relationship with his daughter and begin seeing her on a regular basis."

He knows reconnecting won't be easy. "Tom realizes that he has an incredible amount of time to make up with Suri, but he's willing to do what it takes," says the friend. Adds a source: "Tom knows that she won't just go jumping back into his arms, and that he's going to have to take it slow and steady to show her he's back in her life for good."

Tom is about to drop the bombshell on Katie. "He's going to get word to her through their handlers and attorneys that he wants to see Suri within the next few weeks," says the friend. "He's already in preproduction on Mission: Impossible 6 and wants to reconnect with Suri before he throws himself into making the big action film."

Tom's intense work schedule has long been blamed for why he doesn't see his little girl. "He always uses filming commitments as his excuse," says the source. Adds the friend, "Tom has built his life in a way where he goes almost immediately from one movie to the next, but he's now willing to make time for Suri."

Another possible reason he hasn't seen her: Scientology. Multiple insiders have told In Touch that after his divorce from Katie, Tom's religion declared her a "suppressive person," the term that's applied to people the church perceives as enemies. "Tom is disconnected from Katie, and then from Suri because of her connection to Katie," an insider previously explained. But Tom, says the friend, "is such a deified figure in the church that he can bend Scientology rules to his benefit. In other words, if he wants to see Suri, he can."

SEEING SURI

"Tom's all revved up about reviving his relationship with Suri," says a close friend. "His role as a father is the most important thing to him right now."

And now, finally, he will. "It's been a long time since she's had Tom physically in her life," the source says of Suri. "But Tom's ready to ramp up his relationship with her in a big way." Adds the friend, "He was so moved by Mary Lee's funeral and the importance of family that he's made up his mind: He doesn't want to lose out on any more time with Suri." ■

After More Than Three Years TOM WANTS

LEAH: TOM CAN END SCIENTOLOGY

Outspoken former Scientologist Leah Remini has made bold new claims about Tom and the power he wields within the church.

During a Feb. 17 appearance on HBO's Real Time With Bill Maher,

Leah claimed that hard-line rules other Scientologists are required to follow to the letter are "bent for him," adding that it's "part of the hypocrisy" of the church. She also agreed with her host's suggestion that Tom could single-handedly shut down the religion, which she claims is rife with abusive practices, if he wanted to.

"He could end this," she said. When Leah – who just wrapped the first season of her A&E docuseries, Scientology and the Aftermath – added that the church is pushing the idea that Tom is "changing the planet" because of his success, Maher quipped, "Changing the planet? He couldn't even make Jack Reacher a hit."

A FRESH START

"Tom is sure that over time he can win Suri back and make that father-daughter connection work once again," says a source.

1 THE ANNOUNCEMENT CAME EARLY BECAUSE...

Bachelor Nation was stunned when Rachel Lindsay was announced as the season 13 Bachelor-ette on the Feb. 13 episode of Jimmy Kimmel Live! — not because she made history by becoming the show's first ever African-American star but because Nick Viall, 36, hadn't even eliminated her yet on The Bachelor! "The announcement was made early to increase applicant responses for diversity," an insider close to the gorgeous Texan, 31, tells In Touch. But that's not all. "Now that people know it's Rachel," adds a close friend, "they can cast guys who genuinely want to date her."

2 DON'T EXPECT HER TO BE MANIPULATED

"She's way too smart for the b.s.," says the friend, adding that Rachel has always been one to make her own decisions. "Even if they cast a bunch of jerks, Rachel will be able to figure out who's not there for the right reasons and kick him off." She also won't be manipulated behind the scenes. "I don't see a producer tricking her into letting a certain guy stay [just for the drama]," adds the friend. "She's taking this whole thing very seriously."

3 SHE WON'T BE QUITTING HER DAY JOB

Filming is set to begin in early March, but the successful lawyer won't be stepping away from the courtroom for long. According to court records, two of Rachel's cases are still open — and one of them is heading to trial this August!

4 FRIENDS ARE A LITTLE WORRIED

America's excited to watch Rachel find love, but her close pals have doubts. "We're having a hard time wrapping our minds around it. Rachel is a smart girl, but the whole environment and concept of the show is bizarre," says the friend. "Of course we want her to be happy, but The Bachelor-ette is not the real world. It's so contrived and surreal."

5 RACHEL WAS ALMOST ENGAGED!

Before she was fighting for Nick's heart on The Bachelor, the Dallas native "was very serious with her last boyfriend. They were talking about starting a family. She definitely saw herself marrying this guy," says the insider, adding that the romance went on for almost four years. "But they lived in different cities, and [distance] ended up dividing them. They officially ended things last spring," just months before Bachelor filming began.

6 RACHEL IS A TOTAL HEARTBREAKER

She'll have no problem sending guys home. "Rachel is not someone who wastes time," says the friend. "Once she realizes a relationship isn't working, she ends it. She doesn't string guys along."

7 SHE'S A TOMBOY

"Rachel is football-obsessed. This girl can argue anyone down about sports and knows the NFL inside and out," the insider says of the Dallas Cowboys fan. "Her dream is to be a sports agent," adds her friend. "Being a lawyer is the first step to get onto that path."

guys, and then in college she had a long-term black boyfriend. Race doesn't matter to her." The only thing on her "must" list, adds the insider, is "somebody who is funny. Rachel loves to laugh."

10 THINGS ARE GOING TO GET SEXY!

"She loves kissing, affection and intimacy," the insider says of Rachel, who kissed Nick on the very first night. "She'll be making out with a lot of guys!" ■

8 FAME ISN'T ON HER RADAR

At last! Unlike some past Bachelors and Bachelorettes, Rachel really is there to find love. "Her friends are getting engaged and married right now, and she wants that, too," says the friend, adding that Rachel's optimistic it will happen. "She's hoping becoming the Bachelorette will open her dating pool and expose her to guys she normally would never meet."

9 RACHEL DOESN'T HAVE A TYPE

"She's definitely open-minded when it comes to guys," says the insider. "In high school she dated white

"I'm ready to get this thing started. I [want] to find a husband," Rachel has said of becoming the Bachelorette.

Is Kanye Headed for Another Breakdown

Three months after his mental-health crisis, loved ones are terrified Kanye West isn't getting better

The scene was downright sedate. In stark contrast to the chaotic, over-the-top atmosphere that has come to define Kanye West's fashion shows, the rapper's Season 5 presentation at NYC's Pier 59 Studios on Feb. 15 started a fashionable 20 minutes late and went on for just 13 minutes, accompanied by an old song by The-Dream. "In the context of Kanye," noted The New York Times, "the effect was tame." Hidden away backstage, the usually bombastic and ego-driven star didn't even come out onto the runway to take a traditional designer's bow.

He's not ready to be back in the spotlight. Three months after Kanye suffered a devastating mental breakdown that saw him handcuffed to a gurney and hospitalized for eight days, In Touch has learned he's struggling mightily to cope. "Kanye is most definitely not himself right now. He gets overwhelmed by being around a lot of people, especially in situations he doesn't want to be in," a Kanye source tells In Touch exclusively. Those close to him fear he could be headed for another breakdown. "Kanye is struggling to get better," says an insider, "and [wife] Kim [Kardashian] and his team don't want people to know how fragile he really is."

Kanye's condition is serious. While his exact diagnosis remains the subject of speculation, sources have told In Touch that his mental health must be strictly managed with medication. "Right now, it's all about taking baby steps with Kanye," says the insider. "Those who love him want him to move forward, not backward." It's been an enormous challenge. "He doesn't trust most people, and he goes through these times when he is sullen and depressed or manic and erratic," says the Kanye source. "Right now, I'd say he's depressed. He just seems unhappy. His personality is just not there. He's very isolated."

Kanye's decision to skip the Grammys on Feb. 12 spoke volumes about his condition. "It wasn't some political statement about protesting the awards' relevance like everyone wants you to believe. Kim and his team urged Kanye not to attend because he's still really struggling with his mental state," says the insider. Recording Academy president Neil Portnow even publicly hinted at this, revealing after the telecast that Kanye, who was nominated for eight awards, had been in talks to perform but bowed out because he "had some medical concerns and situations." For Kanye, explains the insider, "attending the Grammys would have been like pouring gasoline on fire. It would have made an already bad situation far worse."

There was a real fear that Kanye could have had another on-air meltdown. "He surely would have been upset and reacted when Beyoncé lost out to Adele for Album of the Year," says the insider. "His team was all about avoiding another Taylor Swift incident" (he grabbed the singer's mic at the 2009 MTV Video Music Awards to protest her victory over Beyoncé). Considering what he's going through, they're confident they made the right call. "Right now," says the insider, "it's all about Kanye getting better and avoiding any public events that might trigger a negative reaction." ■

His Fashion Show Was a Flop

The fashion elite didn't exactly go wild for Kanye's Season 5 Yeezy clothes. "The collection didn't feel startling or new," The Cut's Véronique Hyland wrote of the denim ensembles (pictured), baggy tracksuits, sweatshirts and, of course, Kanye's trademark Yeezy sneakers. W magazine deemed the line "perfect for a quick dash to Starbucks" and The New York Times simply called it "deflated."

HE'S FRAGILE

Kim tweeted that she was "so proud" of her husband following his fashion show, but an insider tells In Touch that privately, she's "still worried" about his mental health.

SCARY TIMES

"Kanye has told his friends that he really doesn't remember anything" leading up to his hospitalization at UCLA Medical Center in November, says a source close to him. "He was sick and mixing prescriptions, and he's saying it basically put him into a blackout-type haze."

Angelina Jolie's bid to keep Brad Pitt from his kids blows up in her face

Angelina Jolie chose her words carefully. In her first interview since her bitter September split from Brad Pitt, she insisted, "I don't want to say very much" about what led her to end their marriage — then proceeded to say an awful lot. "Many, many people find themselves in this situation. My whole, my family...we've all being through a difficult time. My focus is my children, our children...and my focus is finding this way through," she told the BBC while in Cambodia for the Feb. 18 premiere of her latest directorial effort, First They Killed My Father. "We are and forever will be a family. I am coping with finding a way through to make sure that this somehow makes us stronger and closer."

But she was hiding the real story: Her war with Brad is nastier than ever. Five months after she blindsided him with the divorce and launched a

BACK WITH BRAD

Brad (with, from left, Maddox, Pax and Shiloh) "will no longer remain on the sidelines of his kids' lives," says a source.

Brad Will Custody

WREAKING HAVOC

"It's unlikely Angelina would ever admit that she was wrong or apologize to Brad," says the source.

ruthless bid for sole custody of their six kids — saying it was “for the health of the family” — Angelina has lost, and she’s humiliated. “Angie gave up her bid for sole custody when her legal team told her there were just no grounds for it,” the source tells In Touch exclusively. The couple has reached a secret settlement. “Brad has won and is getting shared custody.” Angelina, 41, has been forced to accept that after intense, lengthy child abuse investigations by both the LA Department of Children and Family Services and the FBI cleared Brad, 53, of any wrongdoing, there was no way any judge would sign off on giving her sole custody. “There is just no basis for Brad to not have the kids at least half of the time. The weeklong visits Brad has requested are going to be happening very soon as their lawyers work out the particulars with a private judge.”

Brad’s been waiting for this moment. During an overnight visit in early February with his four youngest kids at his compound in LA’s Los Feliz neighborhood, he made sure Zahara, 12, Shiloh, 10, and twins Knox and Vivienne, 8, had plenty to do — and had a blast. “The kids were very excited to spend the night with Brad,” the source tells In Touch, explaining that by day, they spent hours riding bikes around the property and gated community together, and by night, they made s’mores in an outdoor fire pit. “Knox and Shiloh asked when they could they visit their Santa Barbara house, since there are motorbikes to ride there,” adds the source. “While Brad has been very careful to not make any promises to the kids that he can’t keep, he did say he’d take them to the ranch very soon.”

They can count on it. But Angelina isn’t making it easy on him. “Angie and Brad still aren’t even talking,” says the source. “Brad has made numerous attempts to get a healthy dialogue going, to no avail.” So Angelina’s speech about wanting to unite the family doesn’t ring true based on her previous actions. Hollywood has sided with Brad, giving him a roaring ovation at the Golden Globes, a clear anti-Angelina message. What’s more, Angie is busy trying to rehab her public image. One of her key handlers has been calling various media outlets looking for positive coverage of Angie since the divorce debacle, according to the New York Post.

Desperate to get on the same page with Angie for the kids’ sake, Brad suggested a family reunion at Chateau Miraval. The sprawling estate in France has served as their European base for years (see sidebar on next page). But Angelina refused. “Brad told Angie’s camp that he wanted her to join him in France at their estate with their six kids for a few weeks this summer,” says the source, “but Angie’s camp told Brad she has no desire to go back to Miraval.” Undeterred, Brad tried a new approach. “He asked Angie’s camp to choose a location for the family to vacation this summer and said he would pay for the entire trip,” says the source. She said no to that, too. “Angie has absolutely no interest in co-parenting the kids with Brad. She just isn’t ready to go down that road yet.”

In her new interview, Angelina tried to present an image of herself as an evermom facing a tough divorce. But in reality, after spending the past several months attacking Brad in court papers and in the press, she’s now digging in the knife again, publicly stressing how she wants to keep the family together — even though she’s the one who tore it apart — and painting a false picture of an idyllic home life with the kids. “Right now, I’m going through a moment when just everybody’s in my

The Kids' $60 Million Playground

Brad is longing to reunite the family this summer at Chateau Miraval, the $60 million estate in the village of Correns, France, where he and Angelina first put down roots in 2008 and where they married in 2014. The incredibly private 1,200-acre property, which is also home to a working vineyard, boasts more amenities than many resorts, including a video game room, indoor and outdoor pools, a home theater, a recording studio, a moat, a private lake and even a dirt-bike course. "It's a special place not only for him," says a source, "but also for the kids. Angelina must realize that."

room: two dogs, two hamsters and two children at the moment. It's wonderful," she told the BBC of adjusting to a new normal. "But usually, I just wake up trying to figure out who's going to get [the] dog out, who's going to start the pancakes and did anybody brush their teeth." (One problem: Angelina doesn't even cook, insiders have previously told In Touch — and that includes pancakes.)

While Brad keeps going out of his way to make things work with her, she keeps bucking his suggestions. He even gave her the green light to take all six kids to Cambodia with her as she launched her Netflix movie about the Cambodian genocide — one that Cambodia native Maddox, 15, and Vietnam-born Pax, 13, also worked on last year (see sidebar). "Angie needs Brad's approval to take the kids out of the country," explains the source. "Brad's open to Angie taking the kids abroad, but he wants to be able to still have visitation with them during those times." Angelina shot that down, too. Says the source: "She's just adamant that Brad not have access to the kids while they're out of the country."

It's very important for Brad that the kids know their parents love them and the divorce isn't their fault"

— A SOURCE

She's convinced herself that Brad is battling some dark demons. "She still believes he has a problem with alcohol," says the source. Their relationship blew apart when, on a private flight from France to the States on Sept. 14, a drunken Brad argued with Angelina and got physical with Maddox and Pax. The episode led an anonymous caller to alert DCFS, and Angelina filed for divorce days later. But during the DCFS inquiry, which lasted for months, Brad was cleared of abuse charges and "all of Brad's random drug tests came back negative," says the source. "And Brad insists he doesn't abuse alcohol."

Brad's still working on his relationship with Maddox and Pax.

"The four younger kids have continued to have overnight visits with Brad, but Maddox and Pax have not," says the source. "They're refusing to go to Brad's house overnight because of lingering feelings of anger and resentment toward him." The entire family has been in therapy for months now, and Brad's taken a slow-and-steady approach to mending his relationship with his oldest sons. "Brad is going to be making moves in the next few months to establish a new relationship with Maddox and Pax. He will work with the therapist to make this happen and only wants the boys to be back in his life on the healthiest grounds possible," explains the source. "He feels Angie has done a great disservice to both of the boys because Maddox and Pax feel as if they have to protect her."

How the kids should be educated also remains a huge bone of contention between Brad and Angelina. "It's a huge roadblock in the talks between their lawyers," says the source. Brad is insisting the kids enroll in a traditional school in LA, while Angelina wants them to continue to be homeschooled. "The private judge might be forced to decide how the kids will be educated."

Brad is desperate for the turmoil to end. "Being in counseling has been tremendously helpful for him and has helped him to work through the anger over the divorce and custody battle," says the source. "He's ready to move on from all of the nastiness. Now Angelina just has to do her part." ■

Inside Angelina's Trip to Cambodia

Angelina went big for her first public appearance since her and Brad's September split. On Feb. 18, she brought all six kids to the premiere in Siem Reap, Cambodia, of First They Killed My Father, which gives a child's view of the Cambodian genocide of the late 1970s. They posed with the country's royal family, and Maddox — who was born in Cambodia in 2001 — addressed the premiere audience, telling them, "It's a great honor to present this film to all of you and to stand by my mother and my family." Then he introduced his little sister Shiloh, who stepped up to the mic and said in the country's Khmer language, "My name is Shiloh, and I love Cambodia." Angelina gushed about the passion project, calling it "my way of saying thank you to Cambodia." Without Cambodia, she added, "I may never have become a mother. Part of my heart is and will always be in this country. And part of this country is always with me: Maddox."

"I wanted to focus not just on the war but on the love of family," Angelina said of her new movie.

Justin & The Weeknd:

WAR OVE SELENA

Justin Bieber lashes out as The Weeknd flaunts his romance with Selena Gomez

His message was hard to miss.

A month after going public with his romance with Selena Gomez, The Weeknd was featured on an explicit new song, "Some Way," released by rapper Nav on Feb. 15 about stealing a woman from her boyfriend: "I think your girl, think your girl fell in love with me / She say my f---, and my tongue game a remedy." Many fans immediately interpreted the lyrics as a direct diss of Selena's first love and perpetual on/off ex, Justin Bieber.

Justin heard it that way, too. "He freaked out," an insider tells In Touch, and lashed out at The Weeknd (real name: Abel Tesfaye). "He left a voicemail on Selena's phone, and he knew she would have Abel listen to it. In it, Justin told him to 'watch out' because he was going to drop a song that was 'more real than anything you've ever heard' if Abel didn't back down." The Weeknd isn't doing anything of the sort — and now, says a source, "Justin and Abel are at war."

Justin had already been spiraling. "He called Selena several times in mid-February," says the insider. "She told friends he seems to have snapped." He did: Multiple sources tell In Touch that on Feb. 10, Justin, 22, got into at least four fights — with two male patrons, a bartender and his pal, actor Kyle Massey — while partying at LA hot spot Serafina. "Justin was very drunk and demanding more drinks. He was fighting," explains one eyewitness. Adds a second eyewitness: "He was drinking tequila all night. He was out of control." A third eyewitness says the pop star should be embarrassed: "They had to pull Justin off the bartender. It was horrendous." (Two days earlier, Justin missed a deposition in a legal battle over his hit song "Sorry." He claimed he was sick but hours later posted photos on Instagram of himself drinking with friends; videos surfaced on YouTube that same day of him chugging beers with Kyle at a house party.)

Selena's increasingly public romance with The Weeknd "has hit a nerve," says the source. Last month, when Justin was asked on-camera about his fellow Canadian artist's music, he replied, "Hell no, I can't listen to a Weeknd song. That s---'s wack." In a live Instagram Q&A on Feb. 12, Justin said his favorite song right now is The Weeknd's hit "Starboy" before dissolving into a 15-second fit of childish laughter and ending the chat.

Justin's animosity is driven by his loneliness and enduring feelings for Selena. Two days after the Instagram slam, he posted — then deleted — two videos lamenting his lack of a valentine. "He always thought Selena would carry a torch for him," adds the source, "but she's refusing to be manipulated by him anymore." In fact, Selena piled on the misery Feb. 16 when she released a scathing new song, "It Ain't Me," which fans took as a tell-all about her toxic relationship with Justin ("We stopped seeing eye to eye / You were staying out all night / And I had enough"). "Justin," says the source, "went ballistic."

It's only going to get worse. According to the insider, Justin has learned that The Weeknd and Selena are collaborating on a song that will bash him further. "Justin's friends are worried that all hell will break loose if he comes face-to-face with The Weeknd," says the source, noting that Justin and Orlando Bloom once got physical over Miranda Kerr. "History could easily repeat itself with The Weeknd if they end up in the same room!" ■

The Weeknd's ex Bella Hadid, 20, opened up to Teen Vogue about her former love of nearly two years, confessing that despite their October breakup, "I'll always love him." When Selena read it, "She was furious," says an insider. "Selena hates that Bella's talking about Abel. She says it's because Bella needs to feel relevant." The truth, says the insider, is that "Bella's comments make Selena nervous. She wants to believe she's good enough, but Bella's a gorgeous supermodel — Selena worries Abel could go back to her."

Lisa Marie Hits Rock Bottom

Rehab, abuse charges and a war over millions of dollars shatter Lisa Marie Presley

Her claims were deeply troubling. In new court documents filed in her ongoing divorce battle with fourth husband Michael Lockwood, Lisa Marie Presley dropped bombshell after bombshell. Elvis' only child revealed that she's in massive debt and that the couple's 8-year-old twin girls, Finley and Harper, were removed from their home by child protective services. The officials acted around the time Lisa Marie discovered "hundreds of inappropriate photos" of children as well as "disturbing video footage" on Michael's computer that left her "shocked and horrified and sick to my stomach," she charged in court papers, claiming Michael had at least 80 devices. Beverly Hills police raided her home, took several items and then turned the potential case over to Tennessee authorities.

Behind the scenes, the drama is even more shocking. "This could very well be one of the ugliest divorces Hollywood has ever seen," says an insider, as the former couple battles over their postnuptial agreement and prepares to face off in family court in March. In Touch has learned new information about Lisa Marie's rehab stint last year and who is taking care of her daughters and why. "The claims she made about Michael totally backfired because [LA County's Department of Children and Family Services] was forced to investigate both parents and ended up taking the kids away from both," says the insider. "Lisa Marie is having a total meltdown."

She's been struggling for months. Lisa Marie revealed in court papers that she'd spent time in treatment and was living with her actress daughter Riley Keough, 27, while her twins were under the care of DCFS. Now the twins are living with her mom Priscilla, 71. "Lisa Marie had to check herself into rehab [for three months last fall]," the insider says of the 49-year-old, who has been open about battling drinking and drug addiction. "She's had issues with substance abuse, pills and booze, and that could be why [DCFS] removed the girls from her care. It's definitely why she was in rehab — she's attempting to clean up her act in order to get her kids back." A representative for Lisa Marie declined to comment when reached by In Touch.

The drama is about to get worse.

In legal papers, Lisa Marie claims that the couple's March court date is "regarding allegations of sexual abuse and neglect" against Michael, 55, and that he's also under police investigation. His attorney vehemently denies any wrongdoing on Michael's part. Another lawyer for Michael says there are also allegations against Lisa Marie. Meanwhile, the Tennessee Bureau of Investigation stated it is still trying to figure out if a crime was committed on its turf (the couple lived in Franklin, Tenn., for two years) and had "not opened an official case in connection to this matter."

The couple is also battling over money.

Michael, a musician, is asking for $40,000 a month in spousal support. Lisa Marie insists she doesn't have to pay that, according to the terms of a postnuptial agreement they signed a year after their 2006 wedding. Lisa is also claiming her only monthly income — aside from a $4,361-a-month paycheck she earns from Graceland — is $100,000 she draws monthly from the Elvis estate, which is deposited in a trust. She also claims she owes millions in back taxes. Michael maintains she's lying about her finances. Says the insider: "There's definitely a lot at stake here."

Priscilla's Picking Up the Pieces

On Feb. 17, Priscilla Presley — who's been caring for granddaughters Harper and Finley after they were removed from their parents' care — "looked upset," says a witness, as she ran errands in LA. In a Facebook post two days later, Priscilla addressed the "confusion, commotion and concern.... The girls have been with me and will be until all this is sorted out."

"Lauren's thrilled to be having a daughter," says a source. She and William didn't have a preference on the sex, adds a friend, "but once they found out it was a girl, Lauren was over the moon. She can't wait to dress her up in girlie outfits. She's already started shopping" and designing the nursery. "They've painted the room in blush and have picked out white furniture," says the friend. "Lauren wants the room to be done months before the baby arrives so she can just relax." She's already in nesting mode. "She loves to cook and bake, but she's been in overdrive since finding out she was pregnant," says the friend, adding that Lauren's menu caters to her cravings. "It's going to be unique kids' clothing at an affordable price for moms. She's really excited."

The bitter custody battle over their son, Julian, 6, rages on! Robin Thicke and ex-wife Paula Patton have both passed their first drug tests, but the Warcraft actress, 41, isn't pleased. "Paula believes Robin knew the drug test was coming and had enough time to take steps to test negative," says a source. "They'll both continue to be randomly drug-tested over the next two weeks."

It's a small victory for the "Blurred Lines" singer, 39. "He's still furious about everything that's happened," says the source, explaining that the Department of Children and Family Services launched an investigation after Julian's school reported allegations that Robin spanked his son. Now Robin, adds the source, "is pushing to have his son switch to another school."

The "Roar" singer, 32, blames her messiness on her busy schedule, arguing that she doesn't have time to pick up after herself. But Orlando isn't buying it. "When they first started dating, he tolerated her mess," adds the source. "But now that they've been together for over a year and are comfortable with each other, he's putting his foot down. This needs to stop."

"I feel amazing," says Brie, who celebrated with her twin sister, Nikki, and plenty of sweet treats (below) at the low-key bash.

INSIDE BRIE BELLA'S BOHO BABY SHOWER

As Brie Bella counted down to the arrival of her first child, a baby girl, she celebrated at a boho-chic shower thrown by her twin sister (and fellow WWE wrestler and Total Divas co-star), Nikki. "I told my sister that all I wanted to do was spend the day with my family and friends and have great conversation," Brie, 33, tells In Touch of the low-key Feb. 11 party held at San Diego's Tower23. Guests dined on veggie tacos and steak frites catered by Root Cellar, and a highlight for the mom-to-be was the dessert table: "We had cookies, cupcakes and mini doughnuts, which are all my favorite." The only thing missing from the bash was husband WWE legend Bryan Danielson (whose wrestling name is Daniel Bryan), 35. "He asked if he could come, but I told him it was girls only," says Brie, who guiltily jokes, "Bryan's done more preparation for this baby than I have!" But Brie, whose E! spin-off, Total Bellas, returns for season two this fall, couldn't be more excited to meet her little girl. "When I think about having a daughter who may one day look up to me, it brings tears to my eyes," she says. "I feel so lucky."

BLUE GETS HER OWN STYLIST

"Blue already has her own sense of style and isn't afraid to express herself," says a source.

Beyoncé's daughter, Blue, turned heads at the Grammy Awards in her pink pantsuit ensemble. Turns out the 5-year-old has a secret weapon: "She's a total fashionista, so Beyoncé has hired her a stylist!" a source reveals, noting that the pregnant singer is gearing up to launch a line of Blue Ivy Carter products. That's not the only reason Bey, 35, is spoiling her little girl. "Beyoncé fears Blue will feel left out once the twins arrive," adds the source. "She's hoping this treat will make her feel extra special."

"Matt's concerned that Ben is going to end up alone," says a friend.

MATT'S TRYING TO SET UP BEN

It's been almost two years since Ben Affleck and Jennifer Garner announced their separation. And Ben's BFF, Matt Damon, 46, thinks it's time his pal moves on. "He's been trying to set Ben up with different women. First Matt introduced him to one of [his wife] Luciana's friends in Florida, but that didn't work out," says a friend, adding that Matt then suggested Ben, 47, call up one of his exes like Jennifer Lopez, 47. Ben shot down the idea. "He begged Matt to lay off this Cupid stuff," adds the friend, "but Matt refused. He just wants to see Ben happy."

THE VANDERPUMP We're A

The uncensored reality star dishes

inTouch
with ...
STASSI SCHROEDER

The stars of Bravo's hit series Vanderpump Rules often find themselves at odds with one another. But the colorful cast has one thing in common: a collective fear of SUR co-owner Lisa Vanderpump, who's also an executive producer of the show. And while Stassi Schroeder no longer works at the trendy LA restaurant that serves as the Bravo series' backdrop, she's still scared of Lisa. "I've always been afraid of her!" says the single 28-year-old. "She's just intimidating." Here, Stassi, who recently stirred up controversy after admitting to using Adderall while filming, talks to In Touch's Katie Bruno about not having a filter, why she's freezing her eggs and which celebrity — not Lisa! — once made her cry.

When you quit SUR, you and Lisa weren't exactly on great terms.

SS: I think when I left, she felt that I was ungrateful. But it's like, I don't have to work at SUR forever to show I'm appreciative. But every time I

THE REAL DEAL

"What you see on the show is 100 percent me," Stassi says.

KEEPING THE CAST IN LINE

"Lisa definitely knows how to put someone in their place," Stassi has said (with the Vanderpump Rules cast, from left: James Kennedy, Scheana Shay, Ariana Madix, Tom Sandoval, Lisa, Jax Taylor, Tom Schwartz, Katie Maloney and Kristen Doute).

on what it's really like to work for Bravo queen Lisa Vanderpump see her it gets better and better. I really do respect what she's built.

You always seemed to be the cast member who was the least intimidated by Lisa.

SS: I was just pretending. I remember when I used to work at the restaurant, if I found out I was taking her table, I would have to run to the bathroom and chug a glass of wine.

Is she that scary?

SS: She's not mean, but she knows what she wants. She's somebody that demands respect.

Would you ever consider working for her again at SUR?

SS: No. That's where I started working in college, then I stayed a little longer when we got the show. But it was never a career.

What else do you want to do?

SS: Well, my podcast [Straight Up With Stassi] is my baby, and I'm so proud of it. I'd like to have a snarky talk show. Joan Rivers was my idol growing up. I want to say what everyone is thinking; I feel like no one is doing that anymore.

You are definitely known for saying what's on your mind – do you ever feel like you're too open?

SS: Yes. After every single podcast I'm like, "Maybe I shouldn't have said that!" But I like being an open book, because you have no secrets and no one has anything on you.

Is there anything specific you regret saying?

SS: I've said too much about dates I've been on and ruined things right then and there. But it's hard because I'm talking about my life and experiences, and being single is a big part of my life right now.

How is that going?

SS: When my ex and I broke up last summer, I was all about dating. But then I didn't have the best experiences, and now I'm just exhausted.

Do you think you'll ever get married and have kids?

SS: I do 100 percent see children in my future. I'm freezing my eggs this year because I don't want to feel pressured. I don't know how I feel about marriage, though.

Would you let your kids watch the show?

SS: Sure, it's like a video diary of my 20s. I feel like I've grown up on the show – even though I'm not close to being grown up at all! ■

ON A LIGHTER NOTE ...

Stassi answers our silliest questions!

WHAT'S YOUR PORN-STAR NAME (CHILDHOOD DOG + CHILDHOOD STREET)?

Princess Jewel.

WHAT MOVIE HAVE YOU RE-WATCHED THE MOST?

Probably How to Lose a Guy in 10 Days.

WHO HAS MADE YOU THE MOST STARSTRUCK?

The first time I saw Rachel Zoe I started crying. My friends were like, "What is wrong with you?!"

WHAT'S ONE FACT ABOUT YOU THAT MIGHT SURPRISE US?

I'm obsessed with musical theater.

BIGGEST SPLURGE PURCHASE EVER?

After my last breakup I bought myself Roger Vivier slip-on sneakers that were like $1,500.

WHICH CELEB HAS BEEN MEANEST TO YOU?

I don't feel like naming anyone, but people from The Bachelor. I go up to them and I'm like, "Oh my God, I love The Bachelor!" And they just act like I'm a nuisance.

WHEN WAS THE LAST TIME YOU GOOGLED YOURSELF?

I always Google myself after an episode. I torture myself!

WHAT'S THE MOST EMBARRASSING SONG IN YOUR ITUNES LIBRARY?

I'm obsessed with "Wild Wild West" by Will Smith. It's my hangover song. I turn it on and dance around and it cures my hangover.

Citrus Pouts: OK

Orange is on everyone's lips, but for some stars the fruity color is a bit

SATINY ORANGE? CAPTIVATING

"The slight satin sheen of Nicole Kidman's blood-orange lips shines without overwhelming," says Zachary. "Plus, the darker hue pops against her skin, enhancing its rosy undertones." For a similar shine, try Sephora Cream Lip Stain in Mandarin Muse ($14, sephora.com).

CREAMY CORAL? SULTRY

"Ariel Winter's soft, pillowy orangey-red lip has a subtle creamy finish that complements her skin's golden tones," Zachary says. His plumping trick: He lined her lips with a red liner, then filled them in with MAC Lipstick in Lady Danger ($17, maccosmetics.com).

Classic red lips? Yawn! Hollywood's hottest are pushing the traditional red-carpet hue to the side and making a striking statement with shades of orange instead. "A citrus lippie has that wow factor that helps lips stand out while retaining the glam vibe of classic scarlet shades," says Kip Zachary, the makeup artist behind Ariel Winter's bold lip look below. His pro tip to nailing the trend: "Most women put on their lipstick last, but with a color this intense, it's best to start with the lip and build the rest of the makeup around it." And while there's a shade for every skin tone, choosing the right formula makes all the difference in ensuring the color stuns, he adds. "A super-shiny finish can skew cartoony while an ultra matte can look too intense." Take cues from these celebs to find the right formula for you.

or Ew?

SOUR

SHINY PUMPKIN? HALLOWEENY

The amped-up shine of Malin Akerman's gloss puts too much emphasis on its overly orange tone, says Zachary. What would have worked better? A velvety peach-based hue (we like Fiona Stiles Color Impact Satin Lip Crayon in Sunny Dip, $16, ulta.com).

MATTE NEON? CAMPY

Watch out, Blake Shelton! The country singer's romance with fellow coach Gwen Stefani — not to mention his bromance with fellow coach Adam Levine — gets competition from the mutual girl crush between Gwen and coach Alicia Keys on season 12 of the music competition. "Alicia's unbelievably inspiring," gushes Gwen. "She has a spirit and an energy to her that has an impact.

She's just full of goodness." Alicia seconds that emotion, saying, "Gwen's a beautiful soul. I love her style, her kindness and her sweetness." As you can guess, this lovefest gets eye rolls from the guys, especially after Gwen asks Alicia, "Can I be on your team?" Quips Adam, "I wish someone would fight with me like that! ## Rock Dog

FRI. 2/24, PG (NOT SCREENED BY DEADLINE)

Collide

FRI. 2/24, PG-13 (NOT SCREENED BY DEADLINE)

A backpacker (Nicholas Hoult) in Germany goes on a dangerous drug trafficking run to pay for his girlfriend's (Felicity Jones) emergency medical care in an action-thriller with a cool cast (Anthony Hopkins! Ben Kingsley!) – but mixed buzz.

Stray Bullets

OUT NOW, NR ★★★★★

Sixteen(!)-year-old director Jack Fessenden and Asa Spurlock play two teens cleaning out a trailer who cross paths with three criminals (James LeGros, Larry Fessenden and John Speredakos) dealing with the bloody aftermath of a shoot-out. This no-frills thriller is tight and twisted.

Meet the Stars of MTV's Stranded With a

Ten strangers are picked to live on an island – find out what happens

MICHAEL SCHUUR, 19

ROUGHING IT:

The former Eagle Scout and current college athlete says the hardest part of being stranded in the wild was the lack of technology. "I couldn't check my social media," laments the Cali resident. "I missed Beyoncé's album drop!"

NO PAIN, NO GAIN:

There were physical struggles as well for Michael, who suffered from a staph infection on his right foot. "I had to take antibiotics after filming," he says.

STINKY SITUATION:

Personal hygiene was hard to come by, says the budding model: "Everyone needed mouthwash."

GINA LAM, 25

PREP TIME:

To prepare for being totally stranded, the San Diego business student gained 20 pounds. "I knew I was going to lose weight, so I ate every cheeseburger in sight."

ROUGHING IT:

"I never realized how spoiled I was," admits Gina. "I'm not used to finding my own food and water, plus I hate bugs!"

GOING FOR IT:

Gina says she did the show to challenge herself. "I wanted to see if I was strong enough to be outside of my comfort zone."

ALEX APPLE, 26

ROUGHING IT:

"The hardest thing was fighting off the hunger," says the Pennsylvania TV reporter. "I was craving things I don't normally eat, like meatloaf. I would've killed for some."

SPLURGE PURCHASE:

Alex was cool with spending some money in order to win the big prize. "We bought a $1,000 pack of playing cards, which helped pass the time."

UNDER THE WEATHER:

He grappled with a serious 72-hour stomach virus during filming. "Being sick in the wild is the worst," he says. "There are no leaves that feel like Charmin!"

Million Dollars

when people stop being polite and start getting really, really hungry

The contestants on MTV's newest reality competition show are dropped on a remote island in Fiji and left to fend for themselves with no water, no food and no shelter. They do, however, have $1 million in cash to split if they survive for 40 days. The catch? They'll be tempted along the way to buy luxury items with the prize money ($1,000 bottles of water, a $5,000 mosquito net, a $30,000 tent), which they can only purchase if the entire group agrees. "I did not want to buy anything," cast member Cody Dunlap tells In Touch. "My strategy was to make people so uncomfortable, they'd quit." (Participants can leave empty-handed at any time if they wish.) Here, six cast members talk extreme hunger, bugs and (oh, the horror!) surviving without social media.

CODY DUNLAP, 24

PREP TIME:

The paratrooper in the Texas Army National Guard watched a ton of reality competition and survival shows. "My special skill is having common sense," he says.

STRATEGIC THINKING:

Cody did the challenge to make money, not friends. "I didn't want to spend money on luxury items to help other people stay in the game."

MAKESHIFT MENU:

After feasting on coconuts for days on end, Cody got creative: "I ate sand crabs, which tasted like salt, and frog legs, which taste like chicken."

EILISH RODRIGUEZ, 24

MAIN MOTIVATION:

The married mom from New Mexico, who has a 4-year-old son and works for Verizon, says she decided to do the show "to help provide for my family."

HUNGER GAMES:

Eilish had to contend with lots of bug bites (inset) but says the hunger was harder. "I felt dizzy and nauseous," she says, "and completely drained of energy."

COMING HOME:

"I missed the simple things, like taking a hot shower. But this experience helped me learn how strong I am."

CHRIS LACERRA, 21

ROUGHING IT:

The Boston-based construction worker, who hopes to break into acting, admits he wasn't prepared for the elements. "It was tougher than I thought," he says. "I was always cold from being soaking wet from the rain."

PEST CONTROL:

"Our camp was infested with bugs," says Chris, who ended up losing 10 pounds. "I slept near a log and was just inhaling bugs that swarmed into my mouth."

HUNGER GAMES:

Chris says he could "cope" with the extreme hunger but depending on others was a challenge. "The odds are not in your favor when people you rely on can leave you at any moment."

Shocking At Home Fix For Crepe Skin

LOS ANGELES-- Many noteworthy displays of innovation were featured in 2017.

However, this year's most talked-about presentation came courtesy of cosmetic surgeons, John Layke and Payman Danielpour (of the Beverly Hills Plastic Surgery Group), who shocked both industry colleagues and members of the press, with an astonishing anti-aging breakthrough.

The doctors unveiled, what is officially, the world's first at-home treatment for the appearance of crepey skin. In clinical trials, this unusual technique was found to effectively tighten and actually smoothen skin around the arms, neck, chest, legs, and other areas.

According to their research, loose skin adds significantly more years to a person's perceived age than wrinkles, fine lines, or pigment changes—which is why they trained their focus on this particular affliction.

And when the doctors demonstrated just how quickly and effectively it worked on volunteers from the audience, it became clear to everyone that their discovery is nothing short of groundbreaking.

Previously, the only way to alleviate the look of crepey skin was through highly invasive, surgical procedures. But Layke and Danielpour have now makes it possible to combat the effects of gravity, using a simple, fast-acting process, which patients can self-administer.

Needless to say, the presentation was met with thunderous applause, and bewildered questions from the audience.

But the latest development in this story came just last week, when the video version of the presentation (put together by Dr. Layke for industry professionals who were unable to attend in person this year) was made available to the public online.

As of this writing, the video has over four million views and is quickly becoming a social media phenomenon.

Ever Notice?!

The Jenners Are Keeping Up With J. Lo!

The Jenner family's fashion syncs up with the style sensibilities of Jennifer Lopez

When Jennifer Lopez teamed up with luxury shoe designer Giuseppe Zanotti for a footwear collection, the singer-actress knew exactly who she wanted to see walking in her shoes: Kylie Jenner! Shortly before Christmas, J. Lo sent Kylie, 19, a pair of shoes in a gift box along with a handwritten note that read "Kylie, Love your style! Can't wait to see how you wear these. Enjoy! Love, Jennifer." Suffice it to say, Kylie feels the same way about Jen's style — and (as these photos prove) a mutual admiration style society exists between J. Lo and all the Jenners!

CUT IT OUT

Kendall, 21, debuted a Balmain jumpsuit on the runway in October 2015 that Jen later wore at her 47th birthday party in July 2016.

SPOT ME

Kris, 61, wore this red leopard Valentino dress just weeks after Jen did.

HALF-MOON

Kylie (on Dec. 15) dons the same David Koma dress that Jen previously wore in ads for the final season of American Idol.

DEAD RINGERS

Was Kylie a sexy skeleton for Halloween 2016 – or was she just going as J. Lo the year before?

WHITE NIGHT

Caitlyn, 67, was honored at the 2015 ESPYs in a white long-sleeve dress like J. Lo's in 2013.

What Heather McDonald Noticed This Week

Nick Quitting AGT Is a Respectable Move

So Nick Cannon quit hosting America's Got Talent after NBC threatened to terminate his contract because of racial jokes he made on his Showtime special Stand Up, Don't Shoot. I'm glad Nick is sticking to his guns, because he's always been a stand-up comic – and that is a lifelong gig. Hopefully people will watch his special to hear his controversial jokes – because 20 million people used to watch him at his old job!

CHECK OUT Heather in Tempe, Ariz., at the Tempe Improv on March 3 and 4.

"The Lego Batman Movie dominated Fifty Shades Darker at the box office, and Fifty Shades Darker liked it."

CONAN O'BRIEN:

"Facebook has just added a new tool for finding help during disasters. Unfortunately, then Facebook shows you photos of your friends having a much better time during their disasters."

JIMMY FALLON:

"Since her Super Bowl Halftime Show, Lady Gaga's sales have increased by 1,000 percent. While sales of bedazzled shoulder-pad leotards have...remained exactly the same."

CONAN O'BRIEN:

"A recent study found that the number of monarch butterflies migrating to Mexico from the U.S. has dropped by 27 percent. Apparently the butterflies are afraid if they go from the U.S. to Mexico, they won't be allowed back in."

JIMMY FALLON:

"After winning the Grammy for Best Album, Adele said she thought Beyoncé should have won instead. Then Kanye [West] was like, 'Damn, she beat me to it!' and went back to his seat."

SETH MEYERS:

"The casts of House of Cards, Veep and Scandal reportedly will not attend the White House Correspondents' Association Dinner to protest President Trump. To protest the fact that he's stealing all their plotlines?"
