Who Wears

MANDY MOORE VS POORNA JAGANNATHAN

Go With the Flirty Flow

With its dreamy tiers of ruffles and delicate halter top, this citrus Prabal Gurung dress is To. Die. For! Mandy delivers an extra dose of fab with bursts of shine from her rings and clutch, and her wavy locks vibe #effortless. Poorna's plain-Jane hair and lackluster dangles? They fail to wow.

ERICA TAZEL VS EMMA MYLES

The Right Fit Is #It

Both beauties dazzle in this zipped-up Byron Lars number, but Emma loses style points for the baggy fit and fussy T-straps that compete with the frock's sparkle. Enter Erica: Her curve-hugging frock is fit to perfection, and barely there strappies give the lacy floral and sequin design center stage for a look that slays.

It Best?

RITA ORA VS HEIDI KLUM

Strike a Sexy-Edgy Balance

This Philipp Plein chain-mail minidress is high on the sizzle scale, and Heidi ups the drama with silver platforms that make her legs look endless, diamond hoops that draw the eye to her stunning smile and a sultry wine mani-pedi. Rita's super-short hemline and metallic neck cuff skew more flashy than fierce.

THE DEVIL IS IN THE DETAILS

Vampy Trifecta

Deep burgundy polish, like on Heidi's fingers and toes, adds eye-catching rock-star edge to any look, day or night. Nail it with Essie polish in Wicked ($9, target.com)

A sleek plated clutch ups the #GlamGame of an on-the-town ensemble. Get your own posh imposter from lulus.com for just $31 (search "What a rock silver clutch")

Who Rocked It?

did!

Stars are tying their strands into multi-knotted half-updos, but the look can get tangled

One topknot? Soo basic. “Tiers of top twists are the new youthful and laid-back way to sweep hair off the face,” says hairstylist Calvin Louis, who’s worked with Lindsay Lohan and Paris Hilton. “And they’re quick and simple to create!” The caveat? “Casual is key — too ‘done’ and the look skews more crownlike than chic.” To do, he spritzes hair with a texturizing spray (we like Not Your Mother’s Double Take Dry Finish Texture Spray, $7, ulta.com) for grit, then secures a 2-inch middle section of hair into a pony and twists and loops sections of the tail into two or three knots or buns before pinning in place. Easy!

Sorry,
Joan!

A quartet of tightly wound twists lined up horizontally look fussy instead of fab. A few loose buns would have worked better to give Joan Smalls an effortless vibe.

Dakota Johnson’s vertically knotted “faux hawk” draws focus up and to the middle, which helps make the body appear taller and trimmer!

SELENA FLIPS OUT ON THE WEEKND

Selena feels threatened by Bella (below), "and who wouldn't?" asks the insider. "Bella is one of the most sought-after models right now."

Since going public as a couple in January, Selena Gomez and The Weeknd have been super serious, engaging in lots of over-the-top PDA and jetting off together for a luxurious Italian getaway. But the relationship has hit a major speed bump. Selena, 24, recently caught her beau

(real name: Abel Tesfaye) texting his model ex Bella Hadid — and Selena went ballistic, an insider exclusively tells Life & Style. "Selena was so angry," the insider says, "she threatened to end the relationship unless Abel cuts off all contact with Bella." The ultimatum isn't going over well with

The Weeknd. "Abel and Bella only speak occasionally, but he's a very independent guy, and he won't be told what to do by Selena. He finds her neediness a major turn-off." Bella, 20, and Abel, 27, dated for nearly two years before their November split and Bella recently gushed, "I'll always respect him, and I'll always love him." Insiders think Selena — who'd been secretly seeing The Weeknd for a year before they stepped out together — has good reason to be jealous. "People close to Bella," adds the insider, "wouldn't be surprised if she got back together with Abel one day."

Vanderpump Rules' Stassi: I'M FREEZING MY EGGS!

Vanderpump Rules star Stassi Schroeder has no desire to hear her biological clock ticking. "I am freezing my eggs this year because I don't want to be pressured," the 28-year-old tells Life & Style exclusively. Stassi split from boyfriend of more than two years Patrick Meagher last summer, but she's in no rush to find a new guy. "I'd rather just be at home with my dogs, shopping online, than out on a date," she says. Stassi wants a family, but she wants the freedom to do it on her own someday. "I do see myself, 100 percent, having children." Marriage, however, is no guarantee. "I used to be a hopeless romantic who wanted to get married, but I come from a family of a lot of divorces. Marriage is not something I'm putting on my timeline."

Stassi admits she isn't enjoying the dating game this time around. "I realized guys are d-----bags," she tells Life & Style.

Throwback! JENNY MCCARTHY

Over the years, Jenny's hair color has been everything from hot pink to dark brown to platinum blond. But on Instagram, the SiriusXM host took us all back to her roots. "Proof I was a real blonde at one point," wrote Jenny, 44. Jenny's tressformations are partially for the benefit of husband Donnie Wahlberg. "I think guys dig when their women change their hair," she says, "because it may feel like they're cheating on their wife with their wife, if that makes sense!"

KELLY DOESN'T WANT TAMRON AS CO-HOST

When former Today co-host Tamron Hall, 46, left NBC on Feb. 1, there were whispers ABC would snatch her up. But there's at least one person at the network who isn't exactly keen on the idea: Kelly Ripa. The Live With Kelly host, also 46, has been without a steady co-host since Michael Strahan left in May for Good Morning America, but "she is absolutely against having Tamron co-host with her," an insider tells Life & Style. "Kelly really feels that the show does well with one female and one male co-host. She's made it crystal clear she will be the only woman on the show." Kelly's rep denies that, telling Life & Style, "Kelly enjoys co-hosting with men and women equally as evidenced by the many female co-hosts she's had over the years."

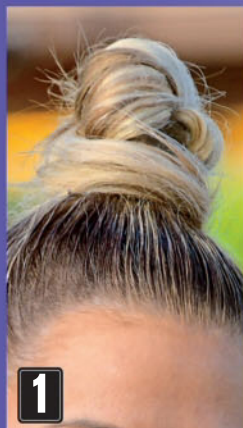

KENDRA AND HER MOM GET A THERAPY SHOW

Kendra Wilkinson and her mother Patti's relationship has been troubled for years, and in May Kendra admitted things between the two were "still very bad." But now the women are taking steps toward a truce — with TV cameras rolling. "Kendra and Patti are doing a new show together," an insider exclusively tells Life & Style, adding that it will be on WE tv, the network that airs Kendra on Top. "It's basically a therapy show that will focus on Kendra and her mom working on their relationship." There's lots to hash out. Kendra, 31, has called Patti, 57, "sadistic" and accused her of selling stories about her. Patti, meanwhile, has lamented having to learn about Kendra's second pregnancy from the media. "Kendra was OK never speaking to Patti again," says the insider. "But she agreed to do the show, and it's been helping them out a lot."

Kendra and Patti, says an insider, "clearly needed an intervention."

Mimi!

MARIAH'S BIZARRE $10K GIFT TO BRYAN

When Mariah Carey is away, boyfriend Bryan Tanaka is allowed to play — as long as it's with another version of her! The singer, 47, shelled out $10,000 for a talking, singing, life-size Mariah doll as a gift for Bryan, 33, an insider tells Life & Style. "It plays recorded messages of Mariah's favorite sayings, like 'Mimi misses you,' 'You're fabulous' and 'Where's my champagne, darling?'" the insider says. "The doll even sings Bryan's favorite songs of hers, like 'Dreamlover' and 'Hero.'" (A rep for Mariah denies the story.) And in case Bryan ever wants to play dress-up, the Mariah doll comes with its own collection of sparkly designer gowns. So what does her backup-dancer beau think of his gift? "One of the things Bryan loves most about Mariah is her great sense of humor," says the insider. "He thinks the doll is hilarious and even joked about taking it out on the town with him when she's not around."

JoJo and Jordan "rarely see each other," says an insider.

Another Bachelor Breakup? JOJO & JORDAN LIVING SEPARATE LIVES

After less than a year together, things aren't looking good for Bachelorette JoJo Fletcher and fiancé Jordan Rodgers. "They have been spending a tremendous amount of time apart and are truly living separate lives," an insider tells Life & Style. Recently, Jordan, 28, ditched JoJo, 26, to hang with his bros when he had some time off from his ESPN gig in Charlotte, N.C. "He definitely could have flown out to hang with JoJo," a source says, "but instead he took a guys' trip to Nashville to barhop around town." That's especially notable because, due to Jordan's work schedule on the East Coast, opportunities for him and JoJo to spend quality time together are rare. "Jordan will come to JoJo's home in Dallas for one week out of the month," says another insider, "but other than that, they do not see each other and rarely interact in public. JoJo is so unhappy."

JON OFFERS CAITLYN DATING ADVICE

Talk about strange bedfellows! Single Caitlyn Jenner has found an unlikely mentor to help her mingle on the dating scene. At a pre-Grammys party in LA on Feb. 11, Caitlyn told actor Jon Voight "she's ready to date again," an onlooker tells Life & Style. Jon's reaction? "He laughed and volunteered to her, 'I'll give you dating advice!'" As unlikely a pairing as they might seem to be, Caitlyn, 67, and Jon, 78, have politics in common: Both are staunch Republicans who support Donald Trump. "They bonded over slamming Saturday Night Live for mocking Trump," the onlooker says. Talk eventually turned to Jon's daughter, Angelina Jolie, who's been locked in a custody battle with Brad Pitt. "Jon told Caitlyn, 'She's hanging in there, but I don't really have any contact at all.'"

Jon (inset) and Caitlyn "were chatting away for most of the night," says an onlooker.

3 Months After His Breakdown, KANYE'S STILL STRUGGLING

After Kanye West skipped the Grammys in LA despite his eight nominations, his mother-in-law, Kris Jenner, explained it was because he had to be in NYC for his New York Fashion Week show three days later. But an insider exclusively tells Life & Style that the real reason Kanye, 39, was a no-show is that he's still struggling with mental health issues three months after his November 2016 breakdown and subsequent hospitalization at UCLA Medical Center. His team, including wife Kim Kardashian, "didn't feel Kanye was ready to attend the Grammys," says the insider. Recording Academy president Neil Portnow confirmed that "medical concerns" kept Kanye from appearing. "At the end of the day," Portnow said, "what we had heard was he just wasn't in a place where he felt comfortable [performing]." Kanye also didn't do a traditional bow at the end of his own Yeezy Season 5 fashion show in NYC on Feb. 15. "Right now, it's all about Kanye getting better and avoiding any public events that might trigger a negative reaction," says the insider, while a second source confirms that the rapper is recovering at a slow pace: "Kanye is definitely not himself right now." LS

"It's all about taking baby steps with Kanye," an insider says. "He's fragile, and his family and friends want him to move forward, not backward."

Robin can only see son Julian with a social worker present. "Robin hates having his visits monitored," a source says.

Robin & Paula: THE CUSTODY BATTLE GETS NASTIER

Robin Thicke and ex-wife Paula Patton aren't backing down in their bitter battle over son Julian, 6. Robin, 39, and Paula, 41, who divorced in March 2015 after nearly 10 years of marriage, both have been drug tested — and though they each passed their first test, a source says Paula isn't satisfied. "She believes Robin knew the drug test was coming and had enough time to take steps to test negative," the source says. In January, Robin became the subject of a child abuse investigation after Julian's school reported concerns over the boy's spankings by his dad. Now Robin, adds the source, "is pushing to have his son switch to another school."

"The world didn't understand this man, but I did," shared Ricki, 48, who was married to the jewelry designer from 2012 to 2015. "He is finally at peace and his spirit is free."

Break-In Blues

Thieves stole a safe containing $2 million in jewelry and other valuables from the LA home of singer Alanis Morissette (left), 42, and husband Mario "Souleye" Treadway, 36. No one was home at the time of the Feb. 9 burglary.

Not Laughing

YouTube's biggest star, PewDiePie (real name: Felix Kjellberg), may have 53 million subscribers, but his recent video showing two men holding a "Death to all Jews" banner wasn't a hit with Disney's Maker Studios or YouTube. On Feb. 13, both companies bowed out of multimillion-dollar deals with the Swede, 27.

Sister Wives DIVO ANNOUN

Losing Control

It's always been Kody's way or the highway. "I don't like divorce — nobody likes that," says Kody. "But my wives are free to leave."

Polygamist Kody Brown's only legal wife, Robyn, is done with her husband's increasingly bad behavior

The skies were gray and stormy, but nothing was going to stop Kody Brown from marching on the Utah State Capitol in Salt Lake City on Feb. 10. His hair drenched by the rain, the Sister Wives star joined a crowd of roughly 200 people to protest a bill that would keep polygamy a felony (punishable by up to five years in prison) in his former home state. By his side were spiritual wives Christine, Meri and Janelle, who held a sign that read, "Keep the government out of our bedrooms." But Kody's only legal wife, Robyn, was nowhere to be found.

She's had enough of polygamy — and her husband. Fed up with her crumbling marriage and miserable life with Kody, Robyn, 38 — who for years enjoyed her status as his favorite wife — is done. Kody's heavy drinking, erratic behavior and decision to cut Robyn off financially have pushed her to the brink. But what finally sent her over the edge: the 24-year-old Montana woman Kody, 49, has lined up to be his new wife as part of his effort to save the clan's struggling TLC show. "She's always said that if he takes on new wives, she'll leave," Robyn's best friend Kendra Pollard tells Life & Style. Now things have gotten so bad in Robyn and Kody's house of horrors that pals expect a divorce announcement any day now. "Robyn has told friends she is going to divorce Kody," Kendra exclusively tells Life & Style. "She believes it is her only choice. She says he will be getting a rude awakening soon when he's served with papers."

SO MUCH DRAMA

This wouldn't be Robyn's first time walking away from a bad relationship. She divorced first husband David Preston Jessop in 2008 after nine years of marriage. "Robyn isn't like the other sister wives. She is a strong person who values her independence," says Kendra. And Robyn can no longer tolerate Kody's bad behavior. "He is spiraling out of control," says Kendra, who has appeared on Sister Wives with the family. "She can no longer trust him. Robyn told me how Kody is drinking a lot of alcohol [these

Spiritually wed to Kody in 2010 and legally wed to him since 2014, Robyn (who shares two kids with her husband) is done settling. "She has always known what she wants," says pal Kendra. "She is a very independent woman."

Kody's Fighting for the Right to Keep All of His Wives

The Browns moved out of Utah in 2011 after reports circulated that they might be charged with bigamy. (It's illegal in Nevada as well, but no investigation has been launched against them there.)

But a fired-up Kody returned to Salt Lake City on Feb. 10 to protest House Bill 99, which makes it illegal to live with multiple people and "purport" to be married to them. "Stop prosecuting consenting adults," blasted Kody, who carried a sign reading, "I'm a father, a husband and a lover, not a felon." Christine (far left), Meri (in green sweater) and Janelle (inset) were also present to lend their support. "We're coming here," said Kody, "so the plural families in Utah can survive and thrive."

"Robyn used to be Kody's puppet... Now she's saying no."

days]. He is becoming a hothead, he has no filter and it is freaking Robyn out." As Robyn and Kody's relationship crumbled, "they would fight and yell at each other," says Kendra. "Now Robyn simply ignores him, which makes him even more infuriated." While their clashes never turned physical, Kody "has a nasty tongue on him," adds Kendra. "Robyn told me how Kody said to her, 'You would not have any of this if it wasn't for me.' Kody has to be the king of his castle."

Now the king wants a new, younger queen. "Kody met her through one of his friends a couple of years ago," Kendra says of the 24-year-old, who will move from Montana to Las Vegas to join the family. "She's a wild thing and she thinks Kody is hot. She said to him, 'Let me know if you ever want a hot, young wife.' Now Kody is taking her up on the offer."

MONEY PROBLEMS

But according to Kendra, he can barely afford to support the wives he's already got. By November 2016, Kody had racked up a six-figure debt, she reveals. Even so, he's fixated on Robyn's troubled finances. "Robyn has nothing, and Kody sees her as a financial burden," says Kendra. "She wanted Kody to reinvest in her business, My Sisterwife's Closet, but he refuses to give her any more money because he thinks it isn't making enough of a profit. Robyn never thought he could be so selfish."

In the past, Kody had reserved his worst treatment for Meri. In 2014, after being legally wed to her for 24 years, Kody pushed her aside to marry Robyn and adopt her three kids from her previous relationship. Downgraded to a nonlegal spiritual wife, hurt Meri sought comfort in an online affair with a man who famously turned out to be a female catfisher. Kody publicly claims to have forgiven Meri, but Kendra says there's still drama behind closed doors. "Before he goes to see Meri, Kody has to have at least a glass of wine just so he can put up with her," Kendra says.

Kody is running out of allies in his own home. He's recently begun favoring Janelle, whom he had treated poorly for years — including fat-shaming her in front of the rest of the family and frequently reducing her to tears. According to Kendra, she's "his No. 1 wife now." "Janelle is making money through her fitness company, Strive With Janelle, and when Kody visits her, she sits and shuts up. He likes that. She's solid and she makes him feel adored," Kendra says. "Robyn used to be the love of his life, but now he sees her as a whiner. All she does is upset him."

LOOKING OUT FOR HIMSELF

With the future of Sister Wives up in the air, Kody is desperately looking for a new source of cash and fame.

And he's willing to ditch all of his wives in the process. "Kody pitched the idea of a 'brother husband' show to TLC, based around a group of polygamous men giving one another advice," reveals Kendra. "But the network did not want to turn it into a series."

(TLC aired an unrelated special called Brother Husbands about a woman with two husbands, on Feb. 5.) Kody now wants to pitch the show to Bravo's Andy Cohen, Kendra says. "Kody has met Andy before," she notes, "and Kody says Andy is fascinated with the male perspective on polygamy."

Robyn wants nothing to do with Kody or any of his future plans. While she's still under contract with Sister Wives for now, she's counting the days until she's free. "Robyn would love to pack her bags, fill up a truck with her things and head over to her family in Utah," says Kendra, adding that Robyn is done with living a lie. "She is going to leave Kody hanging in the wind," Kendra says, "as she pursues a fresh life."

Cruel Intentions

Meri says con artist Jackie (pictured) became "verbally abusive" when Meri started to put two and two together.

The Cost of an Affair

Meri's emotional affair drove a wedge between her and her only child, Mariah, 21. "She had a relationship that...I told her not to have," Mariah says. "She [ignored] my feelings."

'SAM' IS STILL THREATENING MERI

In 2015, lonely Meri engaged in a six-month emotional affair with an online stranger, someone she believed to be a man named Sam Cooper. Her love interest was really a female con artist named Jackie Overton, though, and she later released (under Sam's name) the explosive tell-all Almost Meri'ed, revealing secrets Meri told her — including that she "went mute for several years" because of Kody's constant berating. Provocative photos she'd sent to "Sam" (like one of her suggestively eating a banana) were also published. Meri thought she'd put the ordeal behind her, but she was wrong. "There is still a big problem that she faces," family friend Kendra Pollard tells Life & Style. "The person who catfished her claims to have compromising photos of Meri in the bathtub that 'Sam' recorded during a FaceTime conversation." If the claim is true, the leak of humiliating new pics could destroy the Brown clan completely. "The family still feels like Meri is not being honest, and that's causing problems," says an insider. "The whole thing is a train wreck."

A Different Look For Miley

"She wanted a red, gold and green traditional Hindu wedding dress," says an insider.

She was grabbing lunch at a chic Malibu bistro, but Miley Cyrus was dressed down in leggings, a black hoodie and sneakers. Joining her at Ollo on Feb. 7 was her fiancé, Liam Hemsworth, equally casual in a beanie, worn gray jeans and an oversize sweater.

They looked, in other words, like an old married couple. And for good reason: The duo are finally making it official! Miley, 24, and Liam, 27, have decided to exchange vows in the Himalayan mountains this summer, Life & Style has exclusively learned. Instead of a huge Hollywood extravaganza, the couple — who rekindled their on-off romance in early 2016, after a split of nearly two years — will

"She wants to focus on the spiritual side of marriage and is very interested in Hinduism, so she is looking at locations in Nepal, where Hinduism is a way of life."

BLENDING TRADITIONS

Low-key Liam is happy to let his bride call the shots. So the wedding's shaping up to be a very Miley affair. It'll take place over several days, the insider says, with multiple events including meditation, yoga, prayers, elephant rides, guitar playing, dancing and sleeping under the stars. "In true Miley style, the wedding will be bright and colorful, with flower petals and brightly colored hearts and circles hanging from the trees," the insider says. "Being an animal lover, Miley wants to be surrounded by elephants, horses, peacocks and doves on her big day." And forget filet mignon and caviar: The food will be simple vegan fare (think rice, mushrooms, tofu and vegan pizza).

Not everything will be so untraditional. Family and close friends will attend, and Miley has asked sisters Noah and Brandi to be bridesmaids, while Liam's brothers, Chris and Luke, will be groomsmen. And in the ultimate fairy-tale touch, they've even Miley's planning to change her ZIP code as well as her marital status. "She's telling close friends she'll move to Australia next year," a source tells Life & Style. discussed having Liam arrive for the nuptials riding a white horse. That's a common Hindu wedding tradition, but there's an other, more important reason they want to include it. "In Miley's eyes," the insider says, "nothing could be more romantic."

Lauren (in LA on Feb. 4) will go all out when it comes to her baby shower. "She wants a very feminine event with all the girls from The Hills," says a source. "She's excited to be pregnant at the same time as her old co-stars!"

Lauren Conrad was glowing. At Rebecca Minkoff's Spring 2017 fashion show in LA on Feb. 4, the Hills star-turned-designer wore an off-the-shoulder white lace frock over her baby bump and excitedly chatted about how pregnancy was affecting her style sense. "Anything I can fit into from my everyday wardrobe I am still wearing," she told reporters. "I haven't had to purchase many maternity pieces."

Lauren announced on Jan. 1 that she's expecting her first child with musician husband William Tell, saying 2017 "is going to be the best year yet." And she's got another reason to be over the moon: She's expecting a daughter, Life & Style has exclusively learned. "Lauren is extra excited to be having a baby

ALREADY NESTING

Though the baby isn't due until July, Lauren, 31, is in full-on planning mode. She and William, 37, have already started working on the nursery in their $4.4 million LA home. "They've painted the room in blush, and Lauren's picked out all-white furniture with gold accents," says an insider. "She wants the room to be done well before her baby girl is due so she and her husband can enjoy their time together before they're a party of three." Her baby is also inspiring her creative side: "Lauren can't wait to design a baby-clothing line and has already started shopping for her baby girl," the insider says. "She wants her daughter's style to be similar to hers:

girlie and classic." As for names, her laurenconrad.com team dropped some hints when they shared their 2017 favorites for girls: Hazel, Sailor, Charlotte, Sienna and Elle.

Despite all the planning, the mom-to-be has plenty of time for her current favorite hobby: baking. "Lauren's always had a sweet tooth, but ever since she found out she was pregnant, her sweet craving has been in overdrive," says the insider. "She has been spending her extra time baking brownies, cookies, pies, Rice Krispie treats — and then devouring them. Her husband thinks it's really cute!" LS

Whitney: Giving in to Cravings

Healthy eating is usually easy for Whitney Port, 31, but not since she found out she and producer husband Tim Rosenman are expecting their first baby, due this summer. "She normally eats a lot of leafy greens in her meals and has a green juice every day," says an insider. "Now she has two major cravings: sprinkle doughnuts and potatoes with vegan gravy!" And Whitney, who announced her pregnancy on Instagram on Feb. 9, is just going with it. "Potatoes have become a daily treat," says the insider. "She likes every type — mashed, au gratin and salty french fries!"

Surprise! Heidi's Pregnant, Too

"It seems like 2017 is the year to get pregnant," Heidi Montag gushed in a Feb. 13 YouTube video as she congratulated Lauren and Whitney. She's not kidding: Heidi has told close pals she's in the early stages of pregnancy with her first child! "She's kept it a secret because it's very early on," a source exclusively tells Life & Style. Heidi, 30, who's been married to Spencer Pratt, 33, since 2009, wanted a baby for a long time, but Spencer wasn't ready. He's clearly come around. "He loves Heidi," the source adds, "and wants her to be happy."

Nothing went right when Nick Viall handed out his final rose in Finland

And then there were two. On Feb. 13, ABC made the surprise announcement that lawyer Rachel Lindsay would be the next Bachelorette (see box), a spoiler that let annoyed fans know she wouldn't be making it to the final two. So now viewers know Nick Viall will give his final rose to either Raven Gates, 25, owner of an Arkansas fashion boutique, or Canadian special education teacher Vanessa Grimaldi, 29.

Nick has called Raven "fascinating" and Vanessa "stunning." The best word for the proposal that airs on The Bachelor's March 13 finale? Hellish. During the final day of filming in November, Life & Style has exclusively learned, the former software salesman toyed with both women's hearts — and tortured himself in the process. In one of the least romantic moves in show history, indecisive Nick, 36, resorted to writing a list of each lady's pros and cons before popping the question, reveals an insider, and asked to take a break from filming three times to confer with host Chris Harrison and producers about his choice. "Nick told producers he felt like he was in hell," says the insider. "He was having a complete breakdown and needed reassurance on who he was picking."

With three previous Bachelor shows under his belt, this wasn't Nick's first time choosing an engagement ring. Still, "he kept going back and forth on who he wanted to pick," says an insider. "He didn't want to have to make a final decision."

CHILLY RECEPTION

The scene in Finland was chaotic — and freezing. In past seasons, the finale's been filmed in warmer places like Thailand and South Africa. This time, producers chose a country where the highs in November average a nippy 32 degrees. "The runner-up was not pleased about the cold weather," says the insider. "She complained the entire time and was often late to filming activities because she refused to leave the warm house they were staying in. She wanted to be in a tropical paradise like Bora-Bora and was very disappointed about the proposal location."

Her disappointment only grew when she learned Nick had been leading her on throughout the show. Certain Nick was about to propose, she was devastated when he rejected her. Three months later, "she's still confused," a source says. "He told her she was the one and then just sent her home."

FAIRY TALE DERAILED

Even the woman who ended up with a Neil Lane ring is horrified by the way it played out. Learning that Nick consulted with producers and Chris Harrison before making his choice "truly crushed her," notes the insider. "She was under the impression that Nick knew for weeks without a doubt that she was the one. His indecisiveness has left a terrible taste in her mouth."

Now she's the one who's conflicted. "The winner is starting to question if she even knows Nick at all anymore," says the source. "She feels like she fell for his lies." LS

Rachel: Ready for Love!

Rachel Lindsay, 31, is eager to start her journey as the next Bachelor-ette, and viewers should expect fireworks. "She loves kissing and affection," teases a source. But the outspoken Texas native isn't just looking for fun. "She definitely wants to find a husband," says the source. "Her perfect guy would be adventurous and funny. She never sits still and loves to laugh." While she's the franchise's first black star, "Race doesn't matter to her," adds the source. "She's open-minded."

10 Secrets From the 10 THINGS I HATE

1 HEATH BEAT OUT HUNDREDS OF ACTORS

More than 300 men read for the part of bad boy Patrick Verona. Josh Hartnett was the front-runner until Heath Ledger walked in, director Gil Junger tells Life & Style. "I turned to the head of casting and said, 'Hire him immediately!'" recalls Gil.

2 KATE TURNED DOWN THE FLICK

It's hard to imagine anyone but Julia Stiles playing tough, smart Kat Stratford, but Kate Hudson, now 37, was up for the role — until mom Goldie Hawn made her pass, says casting Goldie told Kate to stay away.

director Donna Morong. "It would have been Kate's first big movie," she recalls, "and Goldie didn't think it was the right one."

3 WHY SEATTLE?

10 Things is based on Shakespeare's The Taming of the Shrew, and Gil says one reason they filmed in Seattle over LA was to avoid comparisons with 1995's Clueless, a retelling of Jane Austen's Emma also set in a high school.

4 THE SCRIPT CHANGED FOR HEATH

Just 19 at the time,

Aussie Heath had never done an American film, and creators weren't sure about his accent. So writer Karen McCullah tweaked the part for him, she tells

Life & Style, adding "lines about how Patrick

10 Things was the "best experience" of director Gil Junger's career. "Every day was joyful," he says, thanks largely to the cast (from left): Susan May Pratt, David Krumholtz, Gabrielle Union, Andrew Keegan, Julia Stiles, Heath Ledger, Larisa Oleyunik and Joseph Gordon-Levitt.

who fell in love with Heath six years later filming Brokeback Mountain.

6 JULIA AND HEATH DATED OFFSCREEN

"Julia and Joseph [Gordon-Levitt] were very attracted to each other," says Gil, and reportedly dated briefly. But when the movie's 10-year anniversary DVD came out, it was revealed in commentary that Heath and Julia, now 35, also got together during the shoot. "Once you saw the chemistry between Heath and Julia," says Donna, "it was very clear [they should be the romantic leads]."

7 JOSEPH WAS THE VETERAN ON SET

At 18, Joseph (who played Cameron James) had been acting for a decade. Gil cast him after seeing him on 3rd Rock From the Sun. "He was much more professional than anyone else," says the director. But Larisa, a tween queen from The Secret World of Alex Mack, wasn't far behind. "She had hundreds of hours of experience," Donna says.

The two, now both 35, went on to date for three years.

8 FAME DIDN'T INTEREST HEATH

Before his 2008 death from an accidental overdose at age 28, Heath became one of the world's biggest stars. But Gil says even as an unknown teen, Heath wasn't concerned with fame: "He said, 'I don't know about the whole movie star stuff, but why don't we just focus on being the best we can.'"

9 JOSEPH AND DAVID PROVIDED COMIC RELIEF

David Krumholtz, 38, and Joseph played buddies in the flick, and off camera they were a "comedy duo," says writer Karen. "They would crack each other up."

10 IT WAS A BLAST

The cast couldn't get enough of one another. "They all said it was like summer camp," says Karen. "They hung out every night; they would all gather in a hotel room or go out to dinner. They were a tight-knit group." LS almost lost out. Casting honcho Donna reveals that Kirsten Dunst and Scarlett Johansson were also considered for the role, along with Michelle Williams, Michelle, ScarJo and Kirsten missed out on playing Bianca.

"Gwen and Blake had been on the fast track to exchanging vows," but the Voice co-stars have switched gears, says an insider.

Gwen & Blake: WHY THE WEDDING IS ON HOLD

Hold the rice! Gwen Stefani and Blake Shelton, who had planned to tie the knot this year, have put their wedding on the back burner. The reason? "They're trying to have a baby first," an insider close to Gwen tells Life & Style exclusively. "That's their main focus right now. She's determined to have another baby and carry it herself, even though Blake has said it doesn't matter if they adopt or get a surrogate." Gwen, 47, had been undergoing in vitro fertilization treatments for a year with no success, but she recently decided to halt the process, the insider says. "Physically and emotionally, it was just a lot for her. So she's trying to get pregnant naturally for the time being." That's not the only issue delaying her wedding to Blake, 40. After her rocky divorce from Gavin Rossdale, Gwen's children, Kingston, 10, Zuma, 8, and Apollo, 2, "are still dealing with the emotional fallout of the split," the insider says. "Gwen wants to make sure they're 100 percent ready for her to marry Blake." LS

TAYLOR WANTS GAGA BACK

Maybe it wasn't such a bad romance! Now that Lady Gaga, 30, has found love with agent Christian Carino, her ex-fiancé, Taylor Kinney, has decided he never should have let her go. "He regrets calling off their engagement in July and has told people close to him that he's made a huge mistake," says a source. "He was devastated when he heard that she's dating Christian." The Chicago Fire actor, 35, has been reaching out to Gaga to tell her how much he misses her, the source reveals, leaving the singer conflicted. "Gaga still loves and cares for Taylor, but she's trying to move on," the source says. "She doesn't know what to do."

THE FABULOUS LIFE OF...

Alyson Hannigan

A COOL $8M CA

For that cash, she could buy 418,641 copies of the American Pie series on DVD!

Just call her Aly the Real Estate Slayer!

Pool-Party Central

The property boasts a stunning courtyard with oak and palm trees, a covered patio and a rectangular pool — perfect for an outdoor bash.

All the feels!
The $30 million actress moves her brood into one epically stylish estate in LA's Encino

When it came time to deliver each of her daughters, Alyson Hannigan opted for home births. “I thought, Where am I most comfortable?” shares the How I Met Your Mother star, 42. Comfortable is certainly one way to describe the actress’s latest digs. She, actor husband Alexis Denisof, 50, and girls Satyana, 7, and Kevea, 4, recently moved into a show-stopping 5,400-plus-square-foot contemporary home by architect Peter Tolkin. The price tag on the glass-and-concrete wonder? A whopping $8 million. That money bought the family five bedrooms, eight baths

As they grow up, Sati (left) and Kevea will each have their own bathroom to style those fiery locks they inherited from Mom.

Dine and Dazzle

Double-height glass walls and beamed wood ceilings up the drama of the formal dining room, just off the sprawling kitchen.

and a living room that was spacious enough to ring 2017 in with a balloon drop. (Seriously, they did.) When not gawking at her towering ceilings, Aly can whip up vegan specialties with her kitchen's double-size stainless steel appliances before unwinding in a massive stone soaking tub with views of the impressive grounds. That's right, outside is just as pretty. Set on three lush acres, the property features a one-bedroom guesthouse, a tennis court and a stand-alone studio — which Alyson just may take over for her beloved DIY projects. Says the redhead: "What I really love to do is craft!"

Being Alyson Is One Sweet Gig

HER NEW RIDE FOR HIS B'DAY

How's this for a good husband? For his own birthday, Alexis (whom Aly met on the set of Buffy the Vampire Slayer and wed in 2003) gave his wife a present: a Tesla Model X. The high-performance electric car is a fave of celebs like Ben Affleck and Cameron Diaz, and starts at around $74,000! "Now what do I get him?" pondered Alyson after the unexpected gift.

ACCESSORIES ARE HIGH-END AFFAIRS

Alyson is known as one of Tinseltown's most down-to-earth leading ladies. But that doesn't mean she isn't a fan of the finer things. The star adores designer handbags and accessories. Her collection includes a Valentino butterfly zip wallet ($357; shown), a Louis Vuitton credit-card holder ($335) and multiple Chanel purses, including a classic large flap bag ($6,000) and a chain-strap bowling bag ($5,700).

HANDS-ON WITH HER FAVORITE CHEF

Ever wish you could make your fave restaurant dish? Alyson learned from the chef himself! On the Food Network's Star Plates, she headed to ink. restaurant, where Michael Voltaggio revealed the secrets of his deconstructed apple pie à la mode. Yum!

Why Is Everyone in

Fashionistas are flashing their legs in statement stockings. We tell you why this, why now

The Celebrity Stylist Says

Sacrificing style for comfort? Not these celebs! “As the temperatures drop, trendsetters are wearing decorative hosiery that delivers warmth and amps up their glam game at the same time for a seriously sexy look,” says Cameron Silver, fashion director of QVC’s H by Halston line. And, he adds, with a variety of patterns available, stockings are incredibly versatile. “Studded stockings like SJP’s add rock-star edge to a feminine frock while Kim’s fishnet cutouts show alluring glimpses of skin to kick her sporty-sultry combo up a steaming-hot notch.” Silver’s tip to looking tight in the trend? “All-over patterns can add bottom-half bulk, so opt for stockings with vertical designs that camouflage flaws while pulling the eye up and down to elongate legs.”

With Open-Toed Shoes

SARAH JESSICA PARKER

Only SJP can pull off stripes, flowers and hardware accents all in one outfit and still look #effortless. Finishing with a pair of her eponymous shoe label's scarlet peep toes? Fierce!

KIM KARDASHIAN

Patterned Hosiery?

The Designer Says

“Women of a whole new generation are now wearing hosiery because they want to, not because they have to,” says Kerry O’Brien, founder and designer at Commando, whose undergarments have been worn by A-listers. And patterned and textured stockings are as important an accessory as a bag or shoes in making a style statement and adding individuality to any look — but at a much lower price point!

The Psychotherapist Says

“As hemlines rose in the 1920s, stockings were primarily used to keep legs under cover,” says Jonathan Alpert, a New York City psychotherapist and author of Be Fearless, Change Your Life in 28 Days. Now they’re less about practicality and more of a way for women to use their legs to express their inner selves. For example, polka-dot hose like Kelly’s say, “I’m playful” while lace-paneled pairs like Diane’s and Chloë’s assert, “I’m chic but badass.”

Fails to Take Flight

Pairing the extra-long winglike sleeves of her Solace frock with sky-high cagey boots ends up overwhelming Serayah's tiny figure, distracting from the dress's body-hugging benefits.

Groovy Gone Wrong

We're digging Bella Hadid's '70s-style sunnies and boots. But the chunky cowl neck, heavy fabric and baggy fit of her Céline dress create the illusion of bulk from neck to knee. Peace out to this style!

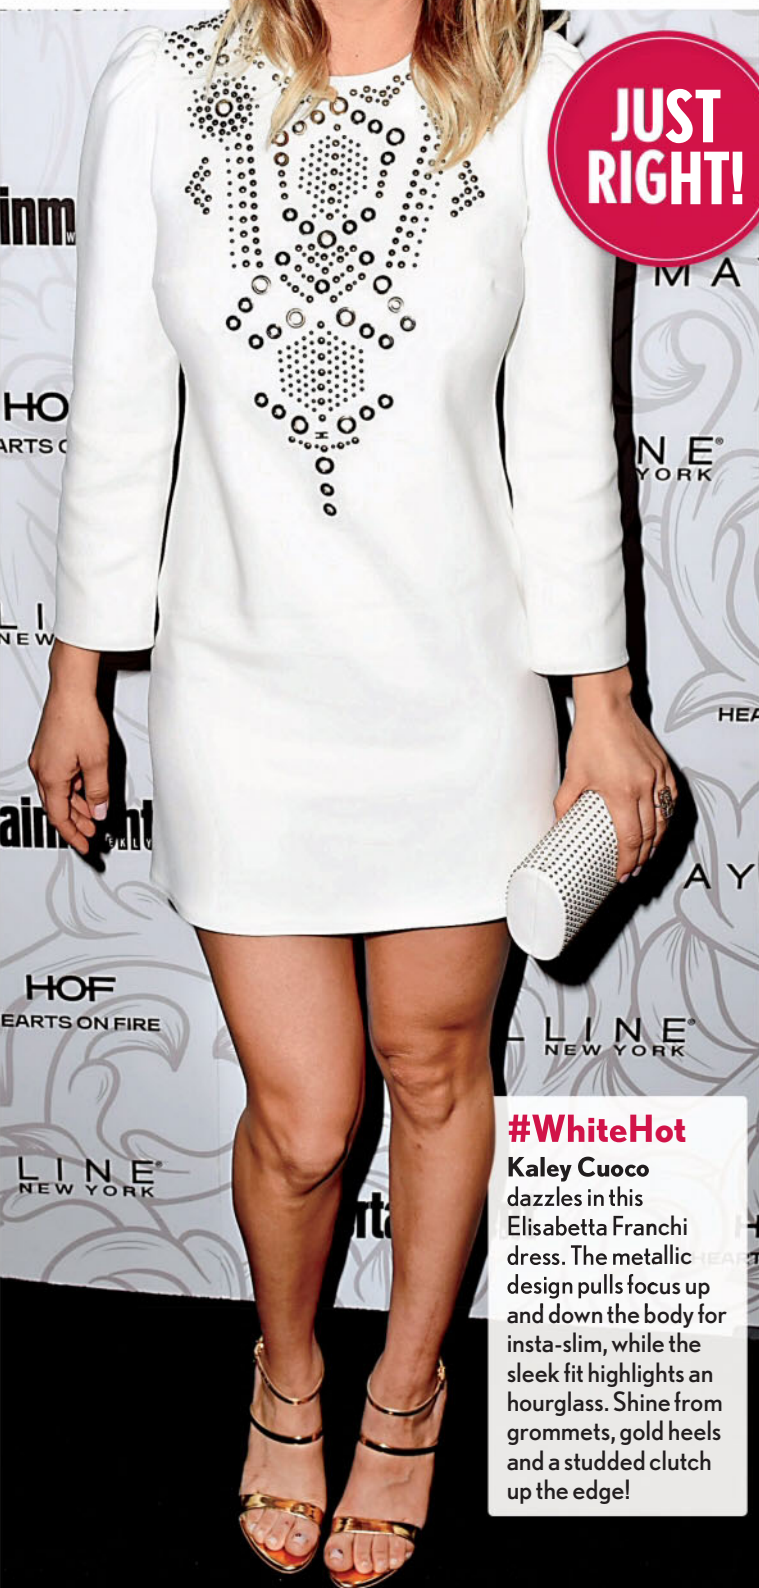

The Bib Is a Bust

Pops of oxblood from Olivia Munn's Stuart Weitzman thigh-highs and satchel add serious drama. It's just a shame the frock's prim ruffled bib and shapeless form put out the flame.

Who Wore

Sheer Madness

A peekaboo black bra under Rachael Leigh Cook's Alice McCall dress would be sexy, if not for the fabric overload from a high neck, billowy sleeves and handkerchief hem swallowing her body whole.

Fluffy Flop

Featherlike frills creeping up the neck and sprouting on the bodice of Nicole Kidman's Erdem dress would create bulk on even the slimmest of frames. Add the splotchy pattern and tiered hem and this frock is a busy #fail.

Granny Panties? Pass!

Black lace and colorful flowers that bloom over the bust? Sexy! Too bad Julianne Hough chose to wear hipster briefs beneath her see-through Yigal Azrouël dress. The panties create an unflattering boxy effect on her fit physique.

Dresses It Smarter?

Ombré Lace Is #It

Bryce Dallas Howard's ombré Self-Portrait dress is flirty-fab! The fitted top, waist-cinching belt and flowy skirt carve out curves. One oops? A swirl of dark lace that runs horizontally just below her hips optically widens thighs.

Sleek Sheath = Insta-Slim

Go Big

Supersize me” just got a whole new meaning on Rodeo Drive as fashionistas hit the streets sporting big sunglasses and even bigger bags. “Large frames are an easy way to amp up the cool factor of an outfit — plus, the bold sunglasses instantly pull focus to the face for standout style,” says celebrity stylist Natalie Saidi, who dressed Vanessa Hudgens in the oversize accessory combo at left. “And trading a quaint cross-body for a spacious tote helps balance out the statement specs while packing its own style punch.” Here, four fabulous combinations to effortlessly achieve #StyleStar status.

EXPERT TIP

If your carryall takes on an “off” odor: “Carefully set a small container of baking soda in the empty purse, then cover the bag with a pillowcase and let sit for 24 hours,” Saidi says. “The powder will absorb undesirable scents.”

1970s Glam

Aviators + Leather

“Sepia-toned aviators and a brown leather tote create vintage vibes,” says Saidi. She suggests pairing the coffee-hued combo with an all-white outfit: a pencil skirt with a crew-neck top, and for sexy Studio 54 edge, finish with a faux-fur coat, sparkling rings and a vampy lip.

Back to Her Roots

She's played a redhead, a brunette and a raven-haired beauty on-screen, but GRETCHEN MOL says, "I'm a [natural] blonde, so I feel most myself that way."

Shine On

LILY COLLINS' hairstylist used a small amount of wax (we like Rusk Gloss Wax, $18, ulta.com) after curling to add luster to her locks and keep the top of her 'do über-sleek.

Short? Go Bouncy

"Gretchen's flapper curls are so elegant," says Felix Fischer, the hairstylist behind this 'do. And since short hair is lighter, it's perfect for springy coils that won't fall flat as the night goes on. His how-to: Using a 1-inch curling iron, curl small sections of hair, alternately curling in toward the face and out away from the face. Then pin curls flat to the head and spray with hair spray; let sit 15 minutes. Unpin and brush through for bounce.

Medium? Pick Bottom Barrels

"Chic '70s curls are perfect for shoulder-length hair since they rest right at the neck," says hairstylist Gregory Russell, who did Lily's style here. To do: Blow-dry hair using a round brush. Then separate hair into three sections and wrap each one around a large Velcro roller (like Drybar High Tops Self-Grip Rollers, $10, sephora.com), rolling in toward the neck from the ends to the nape. Let sit 15 minutes, remove rollers; set with hair spray.

Bold & Beautiful

Pairing luxe curls with bright-red lips ups the drama of ISLA FISHER's style. A lippie that delivers the look: NYX Extra Creamy Lipstick in Chic Red ($7, walmart.com).

Long? Choose Cascading

"An easy way to dress up long strands without having to put hair up? Sleek, Old Hollywood waves," says hairstylist David Cruz, who has worked with Blake Lively and Zooey Deschanel. His key to achieving effortless S-shape curls like Isla's: Using a curling iron, curl hair in 1-inch sections away from the head so every curl goes in the same direction. Once cool, brush through for lovely loose waves.

How to Rock a Gilded Lip

When it comes to making a sexy statement with a pout, Tinseltown stars have struck gold

So long, nude lips! Shimmery metallic kissers are now reigning supreme on the red carpet. "Every girl loves a little sparkle, so why not add some to the lips?" asks Alex LaMarsh, who's prepped the faces of Kim Kardashian and Sarah Jessica Parker. "A gold-enhanced pout adds instant flair, shine and dimension, taking any look from wallflower to superstar." And whether it's with a sprinkle of glitter, swirled in or layered on, the metallic shimmer reflects light onto the face to give skin a gorgeous glow. LaMarsh's tip to trying the molten-mouth trend: Look for tinges that flatter your skin. "A golden shimmer complements complexions with some pink in them while a darker, bronze sheen enhances skin with warm, golden undertones." For more #inspo on how you can get the Midas touch, take cues from these luminescent ladies! LS

Frosted? Funky!

"The reflective quality of RUBY ROSE's gold sheen gives her monochrome makeup a uniquely elevated and badass vibe," says makeup artist Jo Baker who gave the xXx: Return of Xander Cage star a futuristic look that also mimics the shine in her sleek strands. For the fierce finish, Baker simply swiped Urban Decay Vice Liquid Lipstick in Studded ($18, urbandecay.com) onto Ruby's lips.

Glossy? Chic!

"CHRISTINA RICCI's rose-gold lip is subtle enough to look sophisticated, but the glossy finish really makes her lips pop," notes LaMarsh. To get the luxe lip: Swipe on a rose-gold liquid lipstick with a semi-matte finish (like Colour Pop Ultra Metallic Lip in Flitter, $6, colourpop.com). Then for added shine, layer on a sheer gold gloss (like Ulta Shiny Sheer Lip Gloss in Honey, $9, ulta.com).

Sparkly? Girlie!

"The youthful glittery finish of ELLE FANNING's dark-pink lip keeps her look playful," says LaMarsh. To achieve similar polish: Opt for a matte blush-toned lippie (like CoverGirl Katy Kat Matte Lipstick in Catoure, $9, ulta.com), then use your finger to lightly dab a shimmery eye shadow (like Sephora Collection Colorful Eyeshadow in Blonde Ambition, $10, sephora.com) on top.

Shocking At Home Fix For Crepe Skin

LOS ANGELES-- Many noteworthy displays of innovation were featured in 2017.

However, this year's most talked-about presentation came courtesy of cosmetic surgeons, John Layke and Payman Danielpour (of the Beverly Hills Plastic Surgery Group), who shocked both industry colleagues and members of the press, with an astonishing anti-aging breakthrough.

The doctors unveiled, what is officially, the world's first at-home treatment for the appearance of crepey skin. In clinical trials, this unusual technique was found to effectively tighten and actually smoothen skin around the arms, neck, chest, legs, and other areas.

According to their research, loose skin adds significantly more years to a person's perceived age than wrinkles, fine lines, or pigment changes—which is why they trained their focus on this particular affliction.

And when the doctors demonstrated just how quickly and effectively it worked on volunteers from the audience, it became clear to everyone that their discovery is nothing short of groundbreaking.

Previously, the only way to alleviate the look of crepey skin was through highly invasive, surgical procedures. But Layke and Danielpour have now makes it possible to combat the effects of gravity, using a simple, fast-acting process, which patients can self-administer.

Needless to say, the presentation was met with thunderous applause, and bewildered questions from the audience.

But the latest development in this story came just last week, when the video version of the presentation (put together by Dr. Layke for industry professionals who were unable to attend in person this year) was made available to the public online.

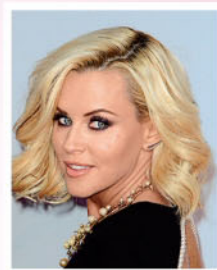

As of this writing, the video has over four million views and is quickly becoming a social media phenomenon.

JENNIE GARTH

The Beverly Hills, 90210 alum shares her fashionable secrets with Life & Style

A fellow celeb I get mistaken for is... Jenny McCarthy. Maybe it's the hair or just simply the name. It's a mystery!

My current passion is... renovating and designing. I recently helped design a room for the Dining Room by Marie Callender's, a pop-up space in NYC. People could rent my room for an event and all proceeds went to Habitat for Humanity. It was a fun way to give back.

The most I ever spent on an accessory was... for a Gucci bag at Barneys. But I had a $1,000 gift certificate as payment for a job, so I guess I didn't really buy it?

My first red carpet experience... I don't remember specifically, but I'm sure I was like a deer in headlights. It's so surreal and overwhelming, but completely meaningless at the same time.

The oldest items in my closet are... Kelly Taylor's cowboy boots. I'm pretty sure I still have some of them.

My most luxurious getaway was when... I went to Dubai and had a 24-hour butler who literally wouldn't leave my side. I felt so responsible for his happiness the whole time that I wanted to take care of him.

A celeb whose style I adore is...

Angelina Jolie. I like the minimalist look. Sleek but not tight. I also love black. So an entire closet of black clothes would be cool!

My childhood dream was... to be a ballerina.

After nearly three decades in showbiz, I still... get starstruck all the time. Now my kids have actors or singers that they like, like Taylor Swift or Garrett Clayton, and I feel sometimes I'm more excited to meet them than they are.

My most decadent meal was... when I used to go to Hawaii and get fresh lobster and ice cream for dessert every night!

WEST BEVERLY BLISS Catch Jennie's 10-season run as It Girl Kelly Taylor on Beverly Hills, 90210 on hulu.com.

Red Carpet Rewind!

My worst look was... at a Woman's Day event. I was a little puffy and did my own makeup, and people said, "Jennie Garth reveals her new face." That wasn't fun.

My best look was... an orange-red dress I wore to an Emmy event with my bob sort of waved. It was easy and had a great Old Hollywood vibe.

DIETS THAT WORK

How Sofía Vergara Reached Her Wedding Weight:

The P-Squared Diet (Produce + Protein)

Without question, Sofia Vergara from Modern Family has one of the most enviable bodies on the big or small screen. Still, the actress-model-perfume creator wanted to slim down on a tight timetable before her wedding to True Blood and Magic Mike actor Joe Manganiello in 2015 — and she did. Sofia, now 44, lost a quick 10 pounds by consuming a healthy, balanced diet that emphasized fresh fruit, vegetables and lean protein and minimized starchy carbs. She ate small, frequent meals that added up to 1,200 calories per day. Her biggest challenge: managing her out-of-control sweet tooth. Growing up in Colombia, Sofía ate lots of ice cream, chocolate, cake and other sweets — foods she still loves but now limits to less frequent indulgences.

AT FULL STRENGTH

Though she didn't work with Sofia, registered dietitian Leslie Bonci, owner of Active Eating Advice in Pittsburgh, says the keys to Sofía's success were "cutting out a lot of the high-calorie sweets and snack items that were calorie bombs. She emphasized produce more throughout the day, which lets you eat a bigger volume of food so you feel full for fewer calories. She also limited her alcohol, which can be an appetite enhancer." While Sofia says she doesn't enjoy exercise, she does Pilates workouts, spin classes and strength training several times per week. When cutting calories, regular exercise helps protect muscle mass to some extent, but consuming enough protein is essential, Bonci says. Sofia's husband, who maintains his bodybuilder-like physique by working out six days a week, sticks with a high-protein diet, and Sofia seems to have upped her protein intake — a good move "because that way you can lose body fat and preserve muscle," Bonci says. That's a winning formula in anyone's book! L S

FILL UP AND REV UP YOUR METABOLISM (ON 1,200 TO 1,400 CALORIES A DAY)*

Eat This

Breakfast

3 egg whites scrambled with 2 cups spinach, ¼ cup lentils; 1 cup green tea; 16 oz. lemon water (260 cal.)

Lunch

Steak salad: 3 oz. flank steak, green beans, cucumber, romaine, tomato, parsley, thyme (350 cal.)

Dinner

Snack

A.M.: ½ cup cottage cheese, 1 peach (140 cal.)
P.M.: 5.3 oz. Greek yogurt, ½ cup strawberries (115 cal.)

Why It Works

A nutritious breakfast soon after waking up jump-starts your metabolism, Dr. Rovenia M. Brock says.

Protein at lunch helps keep your appetite under control and your metabolism strong.

Because they're loaded with fiber and water, veggies help fill you up and keep hunger away.

"Eat snacks that are no larger than your closed fist," Dr. Brock advises for limiting calories.

Other Options

1 cup spinach, 2 tbsp. sun-dried tomato pesto, ½ cup tomatoes, 4 oz. yogurt, ¼ avocado, basil, pumpkin seeds; 2 oz. extra-lean Canadian bacon (375 cal.)

3 oz. tuna, sautéed with 1 cup cherry tomatoes, ½ tsp. smoked paprika, ½ cup black beans; served on 1 cup mixed greens with chopped basil (250 cal.)

NUTRITIONAL KNOW-HOW

Seafood, chicken, eggs and steak are all great sources of protein.

THE POWER OF PROTEIN

Your body needs protein to help repair cells and make new ones, to provide structure and strength to various tissues, to help regulate biochemical reactions (including metabolism) and to make enzymes, hormones and other substances that are used in essential body functions. While trying to lose weight, consuming enough dietary protein is extra important to help minimize muscle loss, which could lead to a metabolic meltdown (causing you to burn fewer calories 24/7), dietitian Leslie Bonci warns. "If you're going to cut calories, protein should be represented at each meal," Bonci says.

PLAYING THE PERCENTAGES

To lose body fat and preserve lean muscle mass, remake your plate so that grains or starches (such as whole-grain pasta or a small potato) make up 20 percent of the plate, lean protein (like fish, poultry or eggs) takes up 40 percent, and produce (veggies and fruits) contributes 40 percent. An added perk of prioritizing protein: It takes longer to break down than fats or carbohydrates do, which means you'll stay full and burn calories for longer during the digestive process.

Star Swap

Instead of having 1 cup of vanilla fudge ice cream, choose a Skinny Cow vanilla ice cream sandwich

You'll save 170 calories and 13.5 grams of fat and still get the sweet and creamy tastes you crave.

Jimmy Kimmel

FROM RADIO DJ...TO $35

The late-night staple worked hard to make it – and get his shot at the Oscars

When he was starting his career in radio, Jimmy Kimmel got fired. A lot. “I felt worthless and all those things that people – especially men with families – feel when they are unemployed,” he admits. Even when he finally scored the job of a lifetime, hosting Jimmy Kimmel Live!, he still faced the chopping block countless times. “There is no way, if I were running ABC, I would have kept me on the air,” says the father of three. But he turned the low ratings around, and now, at 49, he’s worth a massive $35 million. “They say money can’t buy happiness,” he notes, “but it can buy a lot of peace of mind.”

“I’m always looking to the next thing.”

– Jimmy

BECOMING A TV STAR

While he’s still on Ben Stein’s show, he and pal Adam Carolla co-host another Comedy Central program, The Man Show. By the end of three seasons he’s earning $40,000 an episode. He and Adam eventually start the company that produces Crank Yankers and The Andy Milonakis Show.

RADIO DAYS

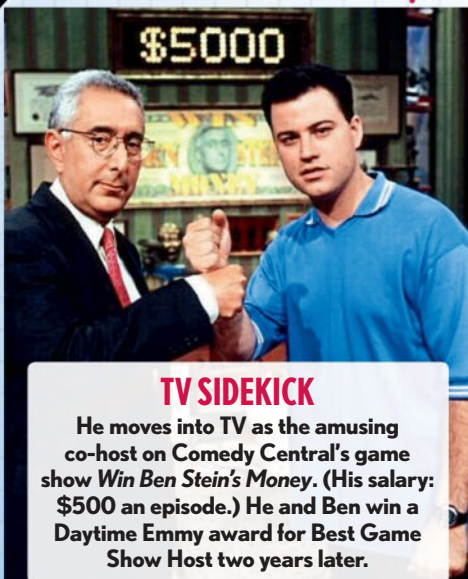

After studying broadcasting, he works in radio in Phoenix, Seattle, Tampa, Fla., and Tucson, Ariz., before landing at KROQ in LA, where he’s “Jimmy the Sports Guy” for the Kevin and Bean morning show.

1984

STARTING YOUNG

Born in Brooklyn, Jimmy and his family move to Las Vegas when he’s 9. He starts hosting a college radio show in his teens and is such a huge fan of David Letterman that he has “L8 NITE” vanity plates on his car.

TV SIDEKICK

He moves into TV as the amusing co-host on Comedy Central’s game show Win Ben Stein’s Money. (His salary: $500 an episode.) He and Ben win a Daytime Emmy award for Best Game Show Host two years later.

1999

HIGH-PROFILE ROMANCE

After divorcing his wife of 14 years, Jimmy dates comedian Sarah Silverman. They’re together for seven years, reigning as a first couple of comedy before splitting in 2009. He goes on to marry Jimmy Kimmel Live! writer Molly McNearney in 2013, and they welcome a daughter the following year.

INTERNET SENSATION

A long-running joke on his talk show, where Jimmy signs off with “apologies to Matt Damon, we ran out of time,” leads to then-girlfriend Sarah making a video called “I’m F---ing Matt Damon.” In response, Jimmy records “I’m F---ing Ben Affleck,” which rapidly accrues more than 10 million views. “It just kind of exploded and became this hugely watched thing,” he says.

2012

AWARDS SHOW HOST

Jimmy hosts the Primetime Emmy Awards and pulls in 13.26 million viewers, nearly a million more than the previous year.

2017

HIS SHOT AT LATE NIGHT

He finally gets the job he’s always wanted: hosting a late-night talk show on ABC. But Jimmy Kimmel Live! isn’t an instant hit. “There were probably six or seven times where the show was going to get canceled,” he says. But persistence pays off, ratings improve to 2.39 million viewers, and soon Jimmy is pulling in a salary of more than $6 million a year.

PISCES

Feb. 19 – March 20

It's time to forget about the drama — some of the happiest times of your life are drawing near, Pisces. This is also the perfect moment to iron out financial issues by seeking professional advice.

Horoscope

WEEK OF FEB. 27 – MARCH 5

By astrologer Josephine Collins

ARIES

March 21 – April 19

If an issue arises at home — or at work — you'll emerge stronger than before if you look at it as a learning opportunity. Make time for an old friend this week.

TAURUS

April 20 – May 20

Regardless of your relationship status, you want love, friendship and security — a combination that can be hard to pin down. Keep your eyes on the prize and see what unfolds.

GEMINI

May 21 – June 21

Life seems to be going your way, but there are issues you need to iron out before you can truly move forward. Once you've cleared up a misunderstanding with a close pal and addressed outstanding money woes, there will be no stopping you.

CANCER

June 22 – July 22

Juggling too many things at once makes it challenging to meet a new love — or keep the one you've got happy. Turning down a project or two will help keep things balanced.

LEO

July 23 – Aug. 22

Your desire for more kicks you into overdrive and leaves little time for relaxation. Don't be surprised if you find yourself working overtime to achieve your dreams.

VIRGO

Aug. 23 – Sept. 22

If you feel like your partner or a pal is coming up short in the relationship department, it's time to have that tough heart-to-heart you've been putting off.

LIBRA

Sept. 23 – Oct. 22

You're in for a twisty-turny week, Libra. A friend brings lots of drama, and you have a major breakthrough in an important relationship.

SCORPIO

Oct. 23 – Nov. 21

This is your week, Scorpio! Shrug off stress and soak in all that life has to offer. You don't often stop to smell the roses; now is the perfect time.

SAGITTARIUS

Nov. 22 – Dec. 21

If a fabulous getaway isn't in the cards, you can achieve the same level of bliss with a staycation. Get planning, Sag!

CAPRICORN

Dec. 22 – Jan. 19

Thanks to your confidence and resourcefulness, people lean on you. But it's time to step back and let others figure things out for themselves.

AQUARIUS

Jan. 20 – Feb. 18

Feeling held back, Aquarius? Your rebellious streak will soon set you free. Enjoy it to the fullest!

They're Not Together, But They Should Be!

An introspective Piscean woman like Chelsea and a thoughtful Cancer man like Tom would make a perfect pair.

Nick Cannon posted on Facebook on Feb. 13 that NBC wanted to "silence and control an outspoken voice... because I was speaking too many truths," so "I can not see myself returning."

Hey Nick, YOU'RE REPLACEABLE!

In the longest social media rant ever, Nick Cannon quit America's Got Talent. Nick's decision came after he says NBC executives threatened to fire him over racial jokes he made in a stand-up comedy special. I don't think Nick's jokes were wrong, but he was less than smart for blasting NBC on social media. Look, Nick, you're replaceable. Nobody wants a sourpuss employee walking around infecting the place like a bad cancer. NBC needs to sign up a fabulous replacement like Marlon Wayans (inset, above)! The show needs a new edge, and Marlon is likable. Sorry, Nick. There's no sweeter job than being on prime-time TV, but you blew it! LS

KNIFESTYLES OF THE RICH & FAMOUS

Has former Real Housewives of Beverly Hills star Brandi Glanville gone too far with plastic surgery? Maybe so — and Brandi is the first to admit it. “I’ve overdone it at times,” says Brandi, 44, who famously revealed she had vaginal rejuvenation surgery following her bitter breakup with ex-husband Eddie Cibrian. “It’s hard to grow older, especially in this town, where everyone is perfect!” Her efforts have yielded mostly positive results. “She looks very good,” says Dr. Gary Goldenberg, a board-certified dermatologist in NYC, who, along with the other experts quoted in this story, has not treated the star. “She looks youthful but appropriate for her age.” Dr. Kirk Brandow, a plastic surgeon in Philadelphia, believes Brandi has had a liquid lift, which involves the use of 10 to 12 syringes of filler during one treatment. “I think she’s had too much filler,” Dr. Brandow says, “but I don’t think any of it looks botched. It is the typical look of the Beverly Hills Housewives. It’s the look of opulence and overabundance.”

“Her skin is in very good condition.”

— Dr. Gary Goldenberg

Brandi's

FOREHEAD

"There are no wrinkles or lines," says Dr. Goldenberg, who suspects Brandi has been getting Botox injections "for some time." Price tag: $900 to $1.2K per treatment.

CHEEKS

Dr. Brandow observes that the reality star's cheeks don't move much when she smiles, which can indicate filler injections, generally priced around $1.2K per syringe.

LIPS

"Brandi's lips are fuller now," says board-certified NYC dermatologist Dr. Kally Papantoniou, "and appear enhanced with fillers." These injections start at $650.

SKIN

"Her pores appear smaller now than before," says Dr. Goldenberg. This effect can be achieved with platelet-rich plasma (PRP) injections ($1.2K to $2.4K) or laser resurfacing ($1.5K to $5K).
